Wheeling Township Democrat Dinner Opens 1968 Campaign

The Democrats of Wheeling Township formally opened the 1968 political campaign at their annual Dinner Dance Saturday evening at Arlington Park.

Special guests were Illinois Atty. Gen. and Mrs. William G. Clark, Sen. and Mrs. Paul Simon of Troy, Edward V. Hanrahan, U. S. District Attorney, and Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights. Wheeling Township Democrat Committee Chairman Jim McCabe also presented Cook County officers and Dave Baylor, candidate for Congress from the 11th Congressional District.

Adlai E. Stevenson III, who had accepted an invitation to the dinner dance, was unable to attend.

Brief talks were made by Clark, Baylor and Rep. Chapman. Jim Simon, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, also spoke.

BOTH CLARK and Simon earlier had appeared before the Democratic State State-making Committee. Simon was interviewed as a possible candidate for United States senator, to oppose Sen. Everett Dirksen, and for the office of lieutenant governor in the expectation that Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro would be elected as a candidate for governor.

Atty. Gen. Clark had been interviewed by the Democratic state committee as a possible candidate for governor or for attorney general.

In his remarks Clark told the dinner audience: "As you know, our state central committee is meeting this weekend to arrange the Democratic state ticket for the June primary and the fall election. I do not know for what office I may be listed, or if I will be listed at all. All of this uncertainty will be over in a few days. Then our Democrats can get down to the job of getting our candidates nominated in June and elected in November.

"We are looking forward to a big campaign this year and to a big victory in November."

Arlington Heights' building department has laid tight more owners of buildings in the central business district to comply with local ordinance or face lawsuit.

A letter sent to the owners of the property gives them 30 days to contact the village's building department to state their willingness to accept in meeting the zoning standards of the various districts.

Buildings in the business area, south of Eastman and north of Signal, are allowed commercial, office or limited residential uses.

The buildings now under fire from the village are reportedly violating the zoning ordinance setting use restrictions and another ordinance which prohibits wood frame structures in the central business area.

So far, 15 non-conforming structures in the central business district have been noted and action will be taken on another 15 soon, according to Harold Best, building commissioner.

Gripe Of The Day

Parents who allow children to ride in auto without using seat belts.

M.O.T.

THE M.O.T. proposal has already received attention in the Cook County and Chicago newspapers, radio and television stations. Editorials and broadcast commentators have discussed the proposal which is described as recommending a new precedent in suburban government.

Most of the 10 mayors involved have urged that the matter be studied as quickly as possible. Most have urged that reduction of expenses through common purchasing be given first consideration.

Co-operation in law enforcement, fire protection, waste procurement, flood control and air and water pollution are other matters in which there is universal interest.

The only dissent came from Mayor Daniel Cooney of Mount Prospect who expressed doubt because under any form of merger, Mount Prospect would lose its non-conforming structures in that area.

The zoning ordinance passed in 1957 was designed to encourage commercial development in the business district, Best said.

It prohibits structural alterations of non-conforming buildings that would prolong their non-conforming use.

Portion of the ordinance that any non-conforming building that has a valuation of less than $5,000 "shall be demolished removed or converted two years from the date it became non-conforming or five years from the completion of any construction."

Non-conforming buildings of $10,000 valuation must conform within four or eight years.

The annual valuation of the eight buildings is between $1,150 and $4,500, but the real value of the land they occupy surpasses any of the existing valuations because of its location in the central business district.

THE PRESENT market value of the land and the buildings could place their annual valuation as high as $12,000, it is estimated.

Here are the eight buildings asked to comply and their owners, according to the village.

Suburb Merger Proposal To Get Thorough Study

BY RICHARD CRABB

The proposal for merging northwest Cook County suburbs into a single municipality that would become the second largest city in Illinois is assured of an early and possibly exploration in depth.

Mayor John G. Woods of Arlington Heights made his dramatic proposal at a meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference five days ago. He suggested that 10 villages voluntarily consolidate into one new municipality with an immediate population of 250,000 and a 15-year potential of a million. Towns involved are Arlington Heights, Hoffman Grove, Oak Forest, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

The only dissent came from Mayor Daniel Cooney of Mount Prospect who expressed doubt because under any form of merger, Mount Prospect would lose its preference position in the payment of sales tax by the Randhurst Shopping Center.

MAYOR ROLAND J. Meyer of Rolling Meadows perhaps came closest to expressing the views of the mayors in his remarks, long range ideas that would be studied as quickly as possible.

There is no question but that we are living in a period when close co-operation between our villages in northwest Cook County is an advantage, even a necessity.

Our police chiefs have for several years now been urging our villages to set up a single police jurisdiction to handle the problems of the northwestern suburban areas.

The need for consolidation to political affiliation is new and there will be a lot of people against it.

"There may be a great deal of merit in John Woods' proposal. I would think that the way to move in this direction would be to take it by village. Perhaps the first step could be a relatively simple one such as setting up co-operative purchasing of materials such as we might advance to more complicated matters such as co-operative disposal of garbage. I would think this is something that several villages working together could solve more effectively."

and with less expense than attempting to have each town work out its own system.

"In the meantime we would be getting a lot of experience in consolidating our efforts. Perhaps then it would be logical and a relatively small step into the political consolidation that John Woods has proposed. We here in Rolling Meadows are the center of the doughnut. If the villages all around us should become interested in consolidation, we would be mightily unpopular if we opposed it."

THE INVESTIGATION will be carried out by the Committee on Inter-Governmental Co-operation of the Northwestern Municipal Conference.

Mayor Ted Scanlon is president. Scanlon said today, "I have been gratified with the naturally be a lot of people against it."

Village Residents Fear Becoming 'Like Chicago' in Merger

BY MAXINE TYMA

The thought of becoming "just like Chicago" seems foremost in the minds of residents who have considered participating in the Northwest Municipal Conference.

"I think it would be a good idea," said Mrs. D. Hermann of Palatine.

"It wouldn't make the area so unbalanced," she said. Mrs. Hermann said she is originally from Chicago and is used to big city living.

Several said they did not know enough about the plan to offer any comment.

2 High Schools Given Diesel Engines for Study

William Mennert, sales director of the Cummins Illinois Engine Sales Corp., and Robert Freeman, power-mechanics teacher at Forest View High School, examine a V8-280 high-power diesel engine donated to the school.

Two Dist. 214 high schools Thursday received new diesel engines for use in power-mechanics classes.

The engines were donated to Forest View and Wheeling high schools by the Cummins Illinois Engine Sales Corp. of Chicago and the Cummins Engine Co., Inc., of Columbus, Ind.

Power-mechanics teachers Robert Freeman of Forest View and James Bauer of Wheeling, each accepted an engine from William Mennert, director of sales and services at the Cummins Illinois Engine Sales Corp.

"We are interested in promoting highly skilled diesel technicians to fill the needs of the rapidly growing diesel industry," said Mennert.

A third diesel engine will be delivered to W. E. Larnum power-mechanics teacher at Prospect High School.

Bulk of Hersey High Staff To Come from Dist. 214

When John Hersey High School opens this fall in Arlington Heights, at least two-thirds of its teaching staff will come from other schools in the High School Dist. 214.

The school, the sixth in the district, is under construction at 2100 E. Wilson Rd.

Nelson L. Lowry, director of personnel for the district, has issued a bulletin to all staff members informing them of the teachers appointed to the Hersey staff and notifying them of openings at other schools.

HEADING THE Hersey staff will be Robert R. Coim, principal, with assistant principals Peter J. Tate and H. Louis Schultz. Tate now is at Forest View High School and Schultz is at Prospect High School.

Other members of the administrative staff include two Elk Grove High School teachers, B. S. Farris, director of student activities, and Dennis G. Gledhill, head librarian.

A. Panagos, Harold A. Poirson, Janice Rowe, and Charles D. Jents. All are now at Wheeling High School with the exception of Poirson who is at Forest View High School.

FOREST VIEW High School teacher John L. Hangey will head the division of practical arts and vocational education. His staff members will be Ethel S. Bitts and William E. Layman, of Prospect High School; Carolyn Layman, Richard D. Craig, and Leonard Wilson of Wheeling High School; Robert Kane of Forest View High School, and Everett A. Melnick, now in the district, and Benjamin D. Elk, returning to the district.

Members of the division of physical education, health and safety are Wheeling High School staff members Carolyn Lynn Bradburn, Margaret Sue Kiney, Sue Thompson, and STEVE N. Charnick, now at Forest View High School staff member Roger E. Seungbar.

Division head is Richard R. Kasper, now at Forest View High School.

Physical personnel staff will include: Donald B. Henne, director, and Dixie A.

Johnson, Dorothy T. Smith, and David Toupe, all of Wheeling High School; Richard Krimm and Robert N. Scott, both of Forest View High School, and Floyd B. Williams of Arlington High School.

THE DIVISION head for social studies and foreign languages is Alex J. Schmidt of Prospect High School. Members of the department are May Linn Fiedler, Leonard Bending, Charles W. Birch, and Virginia L. Phillips, all of Wheeling High School; Carlos Garcia, Nadene B. Brindell, and Carl H. Rose, of Forest View High School, and William H. Daniel of Prospect High School.

Donald J. Hrably of Wheeling High School is the division head of science and mathematics. Staff members for the division are: STEVE N. Charnick, now at Forest View High School, and Kathryn Ann Schmeitner, Lee William Smith, Albert W. Gray, and Susan C. Schott; Arlington High School teachers assigned to the division at Hersey are Leonard W. Burr, Bruce Glover, William K. Bean, Kenneth A. Carter, and Daniel A. Thyron.

Other members are Allan W. Kintzel of Forest View High School, Lester Forrester of Elk Grove High School, and Boyd Saint, Thomas D. Porter, and Donovan Washburn, all of Prospect High School.

Kane lives with his wife and four children at 1054 Bushwood, Buffalo Grove. The caucus is composed of representatives of "various PTA and civic organizations. Members will report to their groups to increase the backing of the candidates.

"WE HAVE there will be independent running," Kane said. "We feel that we would be glad to help them fill out the forms and get their credentials in order."

Portman dates prior to the April 13 election are:

March 23-Last day to file as a candidate.

March 26-Last day for a candidate to withdraw.

April 6-Last day for voters to file for no absentee ballot.

'Crystal Ball' a Success

BY MARIYEN HELFERS

A few snowflakes could be seen in the crisp winter air and strains of dance music could be heard in the background as cars after cars stopped to discharge its passengers at the entrance of the Inaqua Country Club. The occasion was the "Crystal Ball" of the Northwest Area of the Chicago Maternity Center.

One prominent Republican couple denied rumors that the reason they couldn't stay longer was that they had to stop at the Democratic dance. "Not true," they said, "we're hoping to win the trip to Asquith at the St. James Dance."

Saturday night three dances were in progress simultaneously in different locations and many couples had obligation at more than one.

WORKING HARD on their annual dinner dance were the members of the Northwest Area Inaqua: Mrs. N. Burfield, Mrs. Wm. M. Chambers, Mrs. Harold B. Christensen, Mrs. Joseph N. Clements, Mrs. Harry W. Each team member had their tables filled with congenial guests and their theme "Crystal Ball" accurately described the event as well as the fashion. Cocktail and appetizers were served and accented with beading sparkled at tables and on the dance floor.

Even a pair of knee-high boots were accented with jewelry. The return to the basic black dress to fashion importance and popularity was evident, too. Ornate plumes and feathers highlighted still other guests.

A serious pack of Wheeling Wildcats gather around coach Mike Owen Saturday as they prepared to face Notre Dame. Owen may well have been cutting a piece of the Dons' 4-0 center, Barry Hentz, whose 19 points, 19 rebounds, and five blocked shots helped Notre Dame overcome the Wildcats, 62-56.

'Cats Keep MSL Pace, But Lose to Notre Dame

BY RALPH NOVAK

Wheeling played its bit and ran game Saturday and played it well, but lost to one-beat Notre Dame by four years, seven inches, and six points.

The Wildcats, shooting well and harassing the Don of force, shot into a 4-3 lead and were still ahead, 24-17, after a quarter. In Mid-Suburban League circles, Wheeling appears like they have held up this season in 12 of 13 games, including an 87-35 win over Forest View Friday.

NOTRE DAME, however, with the advantage of a four-year senior jump and a 6-9 center, kept its cool and finally pulled away in the closing four minutes to win 62-56, on its home court.

Wheeling's center, Carl Frick, scored 11 points, grabbed 13 rebounds, and did a defensive job on Don center Barry Hentz that was better than anyone could reasonably expect.

But Hentz' seven-inch height advantage was a little too much. He scored 19 points — eight in the last quarter — pulled off 19 boards, and blocked five Wheeling shots.

Wheeling's do-everything junior guards, Don Wright and Jack Bussale, also played brilliantly. Wright led the Wildcats with 17 points, had two steals, and added an exact, while Bussale scored 13 points, registered two assists, and made three steals.

THIS TIME, though, they met more than their match in Don seniors Jim McCauley and John Egart, whose extra years of experience were probably worth six points by themselves.

McCauley is listed at an exaggerated 5'7", and looks like a bowling ball with quick hands. But he scored 18 points — eight in the quarter — had four assists, made five of the mistakes the Wildcats made from their opponents.

Egart warmed up on a cold-shooting first half to score points in the third period, when he scored the lead for the Don. He ended with 20 points, plus two assists.

Notre Dame outscored Wheeling, 41-35, and made 11 layovers to the Cats. 15. This allowed the Dons 14-for-16 from the free throw line. Notre Dame was 25-for-36 from the field, and 12-for-24 from the line.

Wheeling pulled the Don lead, and left 14-17 at 2:37 had gone by. Even though they then gave up the ball three straight times without getting off a shot while the Dons scored 11 points, the Wildcats, who made eight of their first nine shots from the floor, came back to rebuild their lead to 20-17, 24-17.

Wheeling made only one of ten field goal tries during the second eight minutes, and survived a six-point quarter in its final only because the Dons only managed 10 points.

BUT McCAULEY took an pointer on a drive, putting the Dons ahead permanently. While Wheeling was throwing the ball away three times with bad passes and lost it another time on a steal. Hentz put in two short shots — one a left-handed hook — and Egart took a pass from McCauley in the final for two more points.

Although Notre Dame didn't score in the game's last three minutes, Wheeling lost Wright on fouls with 2:51 left and couldn't come back.

A Frick free throw and a drive by Wright's replacement, Mike Hatten, cut the Don lead to 62-56 with a minute to go but Bussale then fouled out and the Cats never got off another shot.

Wheeling Belts Falcons

Forest View still stayed close, ending the half behind 40-30. But Wheeling scored 11 points before the Falcons made their first in the third quarter.

And after John Wentz's free throw broke the Forest View spell, the Wildcat put in five more points to take a 56-31 lead and relax at the end of the first half.

Wheeling coach Mike Owen brought in reinforcements in the fourth quarter, but with George Tonting balling all three of his three-pointers, the Falcons began two-for-two, the Can still managed a 19-17 advantage on Forest View for the last eight minutes.

Fight Likely If Dist. 59 Sells Its 'Little Acre'

By Charles Montanari

The Arlington Heights building commission said yesterday that it has issued a building permit for Dist. 59's "little acre" if the land is sold and if this action is legal.

Harold Best said officials of the school district are not increasing the size of the school district by selling the acre.

He said the expected sale raises both a moral and a practical question. The buyer of the land may have to go to the court to receive a building permit.

DIST. 59 is scheduled to hold a public session March 12 to sell the acre of unincorporated land adjacent to the Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights.

The land was given to the school district by the Builders as a dedication for a school site.

The acre was declared surplus by the district even before construction of a building at the site was completed, according to Best, and the district has been trying to sell it ever since.

BEST SAID the village is requiring builders to dedicate land for school and park sites in order to help protect the open land in the development.

That presumably would increase the value of the development too.

An Arlington Heights resident requires builders to dedicate up to 10 percent of the total acreage of a development for public use.

Usually the developer does not have to dedicate 10 percent of the land and he can choose to give the village money instead.

WHEN the dedication requirement is satisfied with money, which has been continually rising.

How it happens that a prospective buyer would need to add $10,000 and in the auction the price could go higher.

THE MORAL question, Best said, is that the district received the land with the understanding it would be used for a school building or for open space.

For $10,000 the school district is willing to compromise the principle on which we have been working with the developers," said Best.

"We are trying to conserve some open space in the village and we want to sell it for more private development."

"The sale is also contrary to the position of school districts against high density of development," Best said.

money the village negotiates the amount which is usually $300 per acre up to the development.

There is some question of the constitutionality of the dedication ordinance.

A builder has taken Mount Prospect's land dedication ordinance to court and won the case.

In Arlington Heights, the fee, builders have either dedicated land or have paid money, according to Best.

SCHOOL DIST. 59 once sold the title acre to the Northwest Cooperative-Mental Health Area for $2,000.

The village did not grant the association a special use permit necessary for the dedication of a clinic.

The school district then bought the acre back for $5,000 and has since been trying to sell it for a price.

THE PRACTICAL issue, according to the building commissioner, is that the district is jeopardizing the relationship of the village with the school district.

"What guarantee does the village have that if we sell the acre we ask for dedication it will not be sold for profit?"

asked an Arlington Heights resident.

Village consolidation in northwest Cook County is unlikely would lead to a merger of school districts, especially of elementary schools.

This is the view of area school district leaders following the proposal by Arlington Heights Mayor John G. Woods that 10 northwest suburban school districts consolidate into one new municipality that would become the second-largest town in Illinois. The towns included in the Woods proposal are Wheeling, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates, Des Plaines, Buffalo Grove and Northbrook.

There is no legal necessity for the school districts to participate in an organization for special education, in general educational projects supported by the federal government and in joint efforts in curriculum development, teacher recruitment and administrative services.

"Some kind of reorganization of our present school districts in this same northern suburban area involved in the Woods proposal is going to take place," said Donald Thomas, superintendent of the Elk Grove school district.

"SCHOOL DISTRICTS experience the same needs for coordination and cooperation which apparently have been explained," he said.

"In the four-township area, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg—comprising 214, 10 elementary and 10 high schools—will participate in an organization for special education, in general educational projects supported by the federal government and in joint efforts in curriculum development, teacher recruitment and administrative services."

Consolidation of villages might have a beneficial effect on the reorganization of school districts, according to school district officials.

The proposed merger of 10 northwestern suburbs into a single municipality will be discussed in a special radio broadcast at 7 p.m. Tuesday over Arlington Heights radio station WNCN 102.7 on the FM dial.

March to Ask Concessions On Stonegate Lights

George March, director of Dist. 10 of the State Highway Division, said yesterday that the state would not approve money for a new light system.

March said he would try to get other concessions from Springfield when the plans of the project are presented.

The state must approve plans for street lights in Arlington Heights Stonegate subdivision because motor fuel tax funds will be used to finance their installation.

The concessions March thought could be obtained are a decreased light intensity for the interior lights of the subdivision and feasibility in the installation of light poles.

John Altwer (center) candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, is welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Loying to their home at 763 K. Roadway in Arlington Heights.

Altwer visited informally with Mr. and Mrs. Loying and others in the area over the weekend and discussed his campaign.

Wald said that the district director would not approve rehabilitation of the existing light system because it would cost only about $20,000 less than installing a new system.

The approximate estimated figures are $100,000 for new lights and $40,000 for rehabilitation of the system.

Members of the Prospect Heights School Dist. 23 board of education may be the first public officials in Illinois history to face criminal charges on violating the state's open meetings statute.

Mrs. Jo Ellen Cain, 201 N. Parkway, filed charges against the board for an allegedly illegal secret meeting held Jan. 27, and the state's attorney may initiate legal proceedings against board members.

The state law, passed at the last session of the Illinois General Assembly, was sponsored by State Rep. Anthony Scarsino (D-Park Forest). It requires that every public body publish a notice of its meetings, notify the press and the public of the time and place of the meeting, and allow only four categories of executive sessions. Closed-door meetings may be held for legal acquisition, litigation, personnel and youth work.

The maximum penalty for violations is in both civil and prison and a $100 fine. In addition, any legislation passed during the illegal meeting may be null and void.

WHAT SUBJECT was discussed by the board at the last meeting, held in Board President Robert LaFarge's home, in Arlington Heights, is not known.

Music Money, Please

There's a certain loneliness feeling that overtakes anyone who checks the checking account and discovers that the balance is zero. The feeling comes usually with the advent of an outstanding bill.

It's been a long time since for one high school kid who has financial troubles to match their great talents.

The nine competed with 3,000 musicians from high schools all over the State of Illinois and won spots in a group of 500 who will go to Dijon, France in July to play for a convention of the International Music Educators.

The 300 are all from Illinois. The spot on the music team can be compared to winning an athletic championship, except for the fact that there are not as many music enthusiasts as there are sports lovers, and this causes the money to make the trip just that much more difficult to come by.

"THE NINE will need at least $500 each for airfare, food and lodging. When they were announced as winners their youthful exuberance made the money seem like a small hurdle but it isn't."

worked out that way. On Jan. 1, the first payment of $500 came due and they managed that at $100 each.

On Feb. 1, the second payment came due and most of them could not meet that one.

Not meeting a payment means that they will be replaced by boys or girls from richer families or from communities with greater interest in their youth.

Arlington High School Music Director Boyd White thinks that the people in Arlington Heights are about the most generous in the world. He just thinks that not enough people know about the big problem in the old high school at Euclid and Ridge.

DAY BY DAY has promised to tell their story. When the 3,000 youngsters assembled at the audition (and they were tough), it was a matter of pride and admission to learn that four from Arlington High School, four from Prospect High School and one from Elk Grove High School had earned a place.

From Arlington the triumphant four were Ken Newquist from the band, David Asper and Betty White from the orchestra and Bill

By Catherine O'Donnell

Hazen from the choir.

Elk Grove High School earned notice and congratulations when Sandra Hegland won. Sandra is a member of the choir.

Prospect High School pointed with pride to Linda Shab, Larry Bloom, Frank Potts and Jan Enberg, all from the band.

Director Howard Sandlund of the four can manage the money but some are having a hard time.

Director Boyd White has enlisted all of his school musicians for a big concert to hold this Thursday evening in Grace Gymnasium at the High School at Euclid and Ridge.

At one dollar a ticket, he hopes that everyone will go to the concert if they cannot, at least buy a ticket. One dollar is small amount to spend for the return on the good will that these bright-eyed American youngsters will generate among 50 different nations represented at Dijon.

DIRECTOR HARRY Swanson of Elk Grove High School has received donations from two village industries, Anacost Engineering and Goldberg & S. merriman Corporation as well as the Elk Grove High School chapter of the Tri-M, a school club.

The whole school is wrapped up in another money making scheme. They are sponsoring a Harry Left Contest. That seems far removed from music but the kids love it. Ten young students have volunteered pictures of their legs and the one student body is being invited to vote for the most attractive. Each vote will cost a small sum and that money will help send Sandra to France. (With the language teacher, she's going to have a rough time explaining how the money was earned for her.)

W.P. Tom Carroll, President of Arlington H.S. Community Council will be glad to accept the donation. His address is Bard-Warner Road, 220 S. Northwest Hwy., just east of Arlington Heights Rd.

Dialogue

"Well, it certainly looked easy. I wanted to show people skiing down the mountain side at Grandble, France a few weeks ago when the Winter Olympics decided to give it a try myself."

"What were you up to in Grenoble to show up Anne-Claire Killy?"

"Not exactly. I'm not quite ready for that yet. In fact, I wasn't quite ready at all. I had never tried it before, but as I said, it looked easy."

"But it wasn't of course. What did you learn?"

"Nothing, surprisingly. And it wasn't as bad as some people say, either. With a little instruction, it turned out to be an enjoyable experience."

"What made you decide suddenly that you wanted to go skiing? I remember hearing you talking the people around here who are 'hooked on skiing.'"

"Well, you hear so much about something from so many different people that you begin to wonder what it's all about. It used to be that skiing was a sport for someone wealthy enough to travel to an area where they had facilities."

"But during the last few years, I've heard of more and more people around here going skiing regularly, businessmen, housewives, high school and college students, teachers and just about everyone."

"So I figured that if writer George Plimpton could go in and run five plays at quarterback for the Detroit Lions, George Hamilton could be fearless enough to try out a pair of skis. Even if I wasn't as Grenoble."

"So you flew out to Aspen or some valley?"

"No, I drove a short distance to Wilmet Mountain, just across the state line in Wisconsin. I asked around and learned that a lot of people from our area go there, including many of the high school athletes."

"I didn't know there were any mountains around here."

"Technically, it may not be a mountain. I don't know how high a hill has to be before it becomes a mountain."

"But it may depend on your point of view. If you're at the bottom, you might call it a hill. At the top, it sure seems like a mountain. Actually, this place was created when the glacier that used to be here left behind some pretty big hills of snow and ice."

"So now someone finally realized that the hills would be good for skiing. And they put in snow making machines just in case nature dropped the snow in the wrong place. Like it did last year, all over our streets instead of on their hills."

"And they put in chairlifts to take you to the top of the hills and places to get warm and to get something to eat at the bottom."

"What do they need life here? Can't you ski in the top of the hill?"

"You couldn't ski uphill and it would be a tough climb. I found out the hard way. I went to go up a small incline without sliding backwards."

"Anyway, I went out to Wilmet on a week-day, because I was told there wouldn't be as many people to get in my way if I couldn't stop while spending down the hill head first or something."

"There weren't a lot of people, as they said, and I did spend some time falling down and getting up. In fact, I was told that for a beginner, I'm pretty good at getting up after falling down."

"After a falling lesson from instructor Mary Gorman, I wasn't falling down so much. I began to get some self-confidence and by the time the day was over, had discovered how much fun skiing can be."

... with George Hamilton

"One thing that made me wonder, though, Mary knew I was a beginner, and when the lesson was nearly over, he commented, 'You're pretty good.' But he didn't say if I was good at skiing or at falling down."

Wilmet Mountain ski instructor Mary Gorman skis backward down a small slope at Mary Gorman ski school. Hamilton is on the left of the skis. Read the lesson. Point them toward the ski tips. Keep the knees up. Straighten up. (Where?)

Using each service skier's life more (maybe) falls more often. And when he realizes that skiing has serious risks - this time - there's plenty of reason to think.

"The way it's goin' with these Supreme Court decisions - it's gettin' so it's no fun bein' crooked, any more!"

Air Poll Gets the Air

Anyone who has ever made a mistake - that covers almost all of us - knows how hard it is to admit it.

It's especially hard to admit it in public. And harder yet to admit it on television to a large audience.

Imagine, then, the stress and strain on television station WBTV in Charlotte, N.C., when it decided to use one of its most popular programs to admit to its own audience that it had committed what it felt to be an error of judgment - a particularly sensitive area of error.

But WBTV made the public acknowledgement - and made it candidly, fully and unflinchingly.

A spokesman for the station reminded his viewers that, as they knew, WBTV had been conducting a "question of the day" poll in the type where people phone in to vote "yes" or "no."

The school board, in the past, has proudly announced the hiring of qualified people for various official positions. Some were new jobs. And yet, with all the quality staff-dispensing quality education, none seems to be of exceptional caliber. Just what to spend money on only to increase your problem. Just what are the duties of a board superintendent?

From what I read, the board members have been very busy on the "big referendum" and have been making coffee. Surely with all the time and money spent in the past, it was not too much to be expected.

James Urbanowicz

Open Letter to President Of Dist. 25

Mr. Robert Budowski Board President

Dear Mr. Budowski: The school board and administration of Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 have, from time to time, expressed a desire to keep the people of the district fully informed of the school's progress and problems. Since the selection of a superintendent is "in process," I find myself lacking a clear understanding of board reasoning on this subject.

Otherwise, you're legally entitled to use the school to do what you like to do. But you're entitled to "head of household" status, or if you have substantial differences you could claim, or if you received paychecks during a prolonged absence, or if you have retirement income.

The punch-card form offers you no opportunity to claim the tax savings which you qualify for in such circumstances.

In short, if there are any complicating factors in your financial picture, you'll probably be better off with the regular form (1040), which takes only a little longer to fill out. (Form 1040)

But, he said, the station had learned that many people were crediting the poll and its daily results with scientific accuracy and social significance the station had never claimed for it, and in fact, did not believe it possessed.

Once, the spokesman revealed, the station had received numerous "yes" and "no" votes on a day when, for technical reasons, no questions had been offered.

So, said the spokesman, the poll was going off the air as of then and there.

Now, this was undoubtedly embarrassing and discrediting to WBTV. But you have to surmise that many a viewer came away from that broadcast with increased respect for the station, its courage and its sense of public responsibility.

It might be well for any public information medium conducting such a poll to subject it to a long, hard look and make sure the public isn't being influenced erroneously by the voting.

Meanwhile, a big push on in the arena for station WBTV - and more power to its signal!

Letters to the Editor

It is relatively simple to state and send $8,000 for committee expenses, but it is financially difficult, however, just to spend money in only to increase your problem. Just what are the duties of a board superintendent?

From what I read, the board members have been very busy on the "big referendum" and have been making coffee. Surely with all the time and money spent in the past, it was not too much to be expected.

Gottschalk Blasts Democrat 'Gag Rule'

"It also serves as a warning to aspiring Democrats that their allegiance had better be to the Democrat machine rather than a conscience or principle."

of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization met Tuesday evening and recommended candidates for endorsement to the 78 Wheeling Township Republican precinct.

Of greatest interest was the recommendation regarding the candidate for governor. The recommendation for endorsement went to Richard Ogilvie, president of the County Board of Commissioners who is running against three other Republicans in the June primary. His opponents are Arthur R. Gotschalk, Pleasant J. John, H. Alton

Elk Grove Strike Termed 'Biggest Gold Robbery'

In what has been called the biggest gold robbery ever in the Chicago area, a gang of gunmen escaped yesterday with $200,000 in gold bullion from the Hendy & Harman Co. in Elk Grove Village.

Seven persons were handcuffed and gagged at gunpoint before the robbers carried out what apparently was a carefully-planned plot to break into the largest prime supplier of precious metals in the country. U. S. Treasury Department agents, the FBI, Cook County Sheriff's police and suburban police are seeking the gang.

THREE OF THE robbers broke a hole through the brick-and-concrete-block rear wall of the building, avoiding setting off the burglar alarm system. They climbed through, and covered the hole with large drums, then waited for 3 a.m. when the lock would permit entry into the vault.

When warehouse supervisor Howard Michalski arrived and shut off the alarm system at 7:50 a.m., the men emerged from their hiding place and threatened Michalski, saying "Do what we say or you'll get your head blown off," according to police.

When the time lock released, Michalski was forced to open the vault, then he was handcuffed to a waste pipe and gagged.

The other employees and a customer also were handcuffed and gagged.

At the same time one of the men used an accomplice in a pickup truck, using a walk-in cooler, according to police.

When the getaway truck arrived at the loading dock, the men inside carried out gold coins and gold bars, contained in metal boxes and cartons. Also stolen was $3,000, but a collection of rare gold coins was untouched.

HENDY & HARMAN has been a favorite target for thieves in the past, and for this reason Officer Manager Woods said he became suspicious when he arrived at 8:30 and noticed a strange auto parked near the building.

He phoned his office from the building, and one of the robbers answered. Low asked to speak to Michalski, but when he was told "There's no one here by that name," he called Elk Grove Village Police. By the time the police arrived, at 8:30, the robbers had left.

The employee, still handcuffed, was untied.

Several nations to the proposal to consolidate its northwest suburban communities into a single municipality have come from members of the business and industrial firms in the area.

The proposal to some of the communities into a single unit was made by John Woods, mayor of Arlington Heights at a meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference Feb. 21.

Woods proposed the measure as a way to concentrate on public services, such as fire, police, health and flood control, and to provide a stronger voice in political matters affecting the area.

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce had an official comment on Mayor Woods' proposal to unite it with other towns in the area, but he said it would be a long time before the plan would be adopted.

He said he was not sure if the plan would be adopted, but he said he was not sure if the plan would be adopted.

our current village government," he said. "Presently the municipal government officials are slow to the people and to the community's problems and the citizens are really involved in the functions of the government."

Several dissenting voices in the idea of consolidating the several communities were expressed by Bell. He said that there would be considerable savings in various aspects of accounting and record-keeping through centralization.

THREE WOULD be some political and economic advantages in doing this, said federal government because the community, which would be the second largest in Illinois, would have a powerful voice, he said.

"We have many dedicated people working in the area, but we have many dedicated people working in the area, but we have many dedicated people working in the area," he said.

Some of the people who are opposed to the plan are the business community, which would be the second largest in Illinois, would have a powerful voice, he said.

great deal of study and planning is going up with something new that is workable and provides increased efficiency in local government."

He said chambers of commerce could co-operate in the planning and study and business and community leaders in exploring the possibilities of a "trial" of Woods' plan.

Businessmen were unable to speak for their own communities and their reactions to Woods' proposal.

William Krulik, industrial relations manager of the Pine Oil Co., said the company was not in a position to make an official comment at this time. Krulik said that he thought it was much too early to make a judgment, although there might be long-range effects.

"THIS WOULD depend on how the plan is structured and how it would affect it," said Krulik.

Donnie Dumrath, sales service manager of Tower Products, Woodstock, said it would take some time to consider the plan, but he said it would be a long time before the plan would be adopted.

Norman Athias, of the Chicago Corp., said he had not heard from the various industries regarding their opinion, but he felt personally that the merger of the industrial Park businesses would be against the people because a metropolitan government would probably infringe on local autonomy.

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

"Well, it looks like our troops in Vietnam are going to be increased again. There's talk about sending another 100,000 men there to 'win the war' a lot sooner, or at any rate, economically whatever it is we're supposed to be doing."

"Yes, I am that they don't call him a war hero and a lot of guys who get married in the army and stay in the Army."

"I certainly know that way. Plus a lot of graduate students who would have been exempt from their draft. They could stay in the army and get a college education. They could stay in the army and get a college education. They could stay in the army and get a college education."

"There's that. With so many of them, it's hard to say that there's no good reason to go to Vietnam. There's no good reason to go to Vietnam. There's no good reason to go to Vietnam."

"From what I've heard, it's not that simple. They need the extra men in Vietnam. They need the extra men in Vietnam. They need the extra men in Vietnam."

"I never heard of any other reason. I never heard of any other reason. I never heard of any other reason."

because of the credibility gap. The real reason, as I understand it, is that our position is being overtaken by U.S. politicians."

"That's what I heard and so many people are saying. They say I thought that with our superior technology that we could win the war. They say I thought that with our superior technology that we could win the war."

"From what I've heard, it's not that simple. They need the extra men in Vietnam. They need the extra men in Vietnam. They need the extra men in Vietnam."

"I never heard of any other reason. I never heard of any other reason. I never heard of any other reason."

more men for that purpose, especially during an election year. I understand that a report of the news had been sent to a military radio recently and heard the following urgent message from an Army command post:

"Hello, Red Dog, this is Blue Fox One. From our position we can see a lot of activity on the highway, getting more every minute. We don't know what we can do this time. I think we're waiting."

"Yes, I know we are. This will probably be our last message to you. A conveyer of our message is being shot down. A lightening bolt just killed us. And our one of us with a disease infection."

"I'm sorry, sir—this movie is not recommended for the mature, serious-minded audience!"

Harper College Construction On Schedule

Construction of the Harper College campus at Route 44 and Algonquin Rd. in Palatine is on schedule, according to the critical path consultants from McKee-Barger-Massucci, employed by Harper to aid in construction scheduling.

The college hopes to open in Palatine campus in the fall of 1949, with its building in operation. Construction began in November, 1947.

Harper college serves Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and Harrison.

The "baptism" slogan has been echoed by area police chiefs as they anticipate complaints from residents regarding telephone and door-to-door solicitation.

Last year, Arlington Heights homeowners reported they were receiving calls from vacuum cleaner and rug salesmen. This year a firm selling water softeners has been working in Elk Grove Village.

While most of the firms are legitimate and are operating strictly under the provisions of the law, however at times become irritated, apprehensive and suspicious.

The police have reported their warning for residents not to open their doors to strangers and to notify the police department immediately if they become suspicious of any person.

One resident requires that peddlers register with the finance director before working in the village, said L. W. Caldwellwood, Arlington Heights Police chief.

"IF THERE is any disturbance caused at a person's home, we would hope that residents call us and follow through by signing a complaint. Unless there is an actual cause for a complaint, there is nothing the police department can do, Clifford (continues), it has 'batter' department. He said that most people firm will notify the police department if they will be molesting in the village.

One peddler if required to obtain a peddler's license to operate in the village.

from the finance office. A peddler is defined as a person who carries goods with him to sell from door to door.

A salesman who telephones a resident and makes an appointment to visit at home is not a peddler.

A salesman who has a product with him for display or who leaves a product in the home for a "trial" is not a peddler.

A salesman who is taking order for a product is not a peddler.

HAROLD CARLSON of the Arlington Heights Village Finance department said the village has no control over most independent salesmen coming into the village to work. He said the peddler's license fee is $11 per year. Other salesmen do not have to register with the village finance office or police department.

"We have no control over this and, for at least the last five years, we have not been able to control this headway."

with the state legislature to give us control," Carlson said.

Recently residents in Elk Grove Village lodged complaints to the police department about "high pressure" tactics of salesmen.

Police Chief Harry Jenkins said he department received a few telephone complaints from housewives and that representation of a national company came to Elk Grove Village to discuss the matter.

It was agreed that the "high pressure" as indicated by the complaints, would cease. The company was a nationally-founded company and was now in operation in the area. They seemed just overly-anxious, Jenkins said.

HE SAID that no formal complaints were signed by the residents and that the matter has been worked out satisfactorily.

"We encourage salesmen to ask for a village permit from a solicitor and, if they cannot produce one, we ask they call the police department," the chief said.

He said door-to-door salesmen must be licensed by the village and must terminate their calls by 4:30 p.m. The prospective salesmen must register with the police and be fingerprinted before they obtain a license to sell in the village.

Heat One Room Or Several ... with DynaVent!

Siegler MARK II Auto-Vent Wall Furnace!

Here is the exciting new thermostatically controlled DynaVent automatic Gas Space Heater. Ideal for truly comfortable "zone heating," because the compact DynaVent units are easily and economically installed in window or wall. Today's modern homes are ideally suited for true zone heating, with multiple units of DynaVent Gas Heaters. No expensive ductwork, flues, or chimneys are required, and the DynaVent Gas Heater's recirculating forced warm air circulation system distributes the heat evenly throughout the heating area. Furthermore, since each unit has its own thermostat, you can easily regulate the temperature for each room ... lower in unoccupied rooms, higher in others. The DynaVent will harmonize beautifully with any decor.

Call Paul Schroeder
For Full Details!

In old homes or new homes ... for breezeways ... shored in porches ... hard to heat rooms ... or anywhere, the Mark II gives quick, quiet, economical heating comfort. It takes practically no usable floor space and adds built-in beauty to the room. The Mark II uses outside air for combustion rather than pre-heated room air. The Siegler Mark II gives you vented, automatic gas heating without an ordinary chimney. You'll find a model available to suit any need, requiring from 10,000 to 30,000 BTU per hr. capacities.

World Prayer Day Services

"Bear One Another's Burden" is the theme of the World Day of Prayer to be held in Arlington Heights at 1:30 p.m. Friday, March 1, at Southwestern United Presbyterian Church, 906 E. Central Rd. The Rev. William T. Jones will speak on the 1968 theme.

Participating in the observance will be the following 19 churches in Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, and Elk Grove Village: Christian Church of Christ, Southwestern United Presbyterian, Our Saviour's Lutheran, Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church, First Presbyterian, St. Simon's Episcopal, St. Peter Lutheran, First Methodist, Lutheran Church of the Cross, all of Arlington Heights; Methodist Baptist and Community Church both of Rolling Meadows; Prince of Peace Methodist, Church of the Good Shepherd United Church of Christ and First Baptist, all of Elk Grove Village.

The World Day of Prayer joins together men and women across denominational, racial, national and ethnic boundaries to pray for the needs of the world and to make an offering for the Church's mission around the globe.

Friday, March 1, worshippers all over the world will follow a special prayer service written by Mrs. Ruthie Suberstrom of Ceylon for the observance of World Day of Prayer.

Offerings will go for scholarships for training for women for Christian Brotherhood in Africa, support for colleges in Cameroon, India, Pakistan, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Guatemala.

The International Service will also be aided, as will the literary work in 18 countries carried out by the Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the National Council of Churches.

In America the agricultural migrant, Indian-American, rural pastor, urban church and other Christian programs under the National Council of Churches will be helped.

Everyone is invited to this service. Baby sitting will be provided.

First Woman on Plan Commission

President John G. Woods names in two women to serve on Arlington Heights' public agencies. Mrs. William G. Harnes Jr. (right) is the first woman ever to serve on the plan commission. Mrs. Walter J. Dumas Jr. has been appointed to the zoning board of appeals. Mrs. Dumas is filling the vacancy left by the appointment of Mrs. Harnes.

Sewing Course At Old Orchard

"Simplified Systems of Sewing and Styling," a sewing course consisting of six lectures, will be offered at Marshall Field & Company's Old Orchard store beginning March 13.

Miss Doris Anderson, popular authority and lecturer in the field of home sewing, will conduct the classes from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. Wednesdays, March 13 through April 17 in the Art Gallery, third floor, Old Orchard.

Emphasis in the course is placed on simplified professional techniques. Each lecture covers a complete and separate phase of the planning and construction of all types of garments.

Techniques are taught in the order in which they occur, from the selection of a pattern and fabric to the assembling and finishing.

The fee for the course is $10. Registrations are now being taken in the fabric section on the third floor of the Old Orchard store.

Deviled Deckers Appetizers

Saving Money

Sharpen Money Management Skills

BY LOU ANN BLAIR

Most of us work hard for our money and then it slips through our fingers without getting the kind of life and future we want. Money is a tool and we have to learn to use it.

One of the best ways to sharpen our money management skills is by having an Income Plan - a plan for spending and saving our money.

You are not likely to start on a long trip with the family automobile without a map and destination in mind. It is equally important to study the map of family money matters and decide where the family is going and the best route to travel.

BY NOW, if you have followed our suggestions in these previous columns, you are making your own Income Plan and know what your real monthly spendable income is, what your Fixed Expenses are on a monthly basis, and are now ready to start listing Flexible Expenses.

Flexible Expenses will allow a lot of latitude in our plan and is the crucial part. In this category are such items as Food, Clothing, Household Expenses, Furniture and Equipment, Transportation, Medical Care, Personal Care.

Recreation and Education, Gifts and Contributions. For our purposes Food should include what you think you spend each month on meals away from home and not covered by personal allowances, tips, alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, snacks, etc. plus the total of the grocery bills.

At the supermarket you will buy sundry items not necessarily classified as food but we want to avoid repetitive accounting. Do not worry about the bookkeeping and laundry soap.

IN ORDER to have some idea how much of your income actually goes for the taxi fare. The important category Food, you should keep a record for a month. You may decide you are spending too much for food and that other things are more important when you complete the totaling of the other flexible expenses.

Household expenses include repairs, maintenance, household help and all expenses not included in food expenses. Clothing includes items not covered by personal allowances.

Furniture and Equipment will include the purchase of appliances, dishes and that stuff for the rest.

Transportation will cover everything from new tires to thing is to have some idea how much you are spending or will spend.

Medical and personal care will include charges not included under fixed expenses and which are variable and not encountered regularly.

THE TOTAL of your Recreation and Education expenses will reflect what you pay for magazines, newspapers, books, music lessons, hobby equipment, upkeep on your boat, summer camp, vacations, concerts, records, parties, etc. Divide by 12 to get a monthly amount.

It is possible you are spending or planning to spend more than you are going to save if a year?

At this point, let us remind you that the making of any Income Plan requires the participation of the family. Get everyone involved and when the time comes for cutting down in some area, which most of us will have to do, they will see the reasons and perhaps offer suggestions in order to achieve the goals and priorities the family has set for the year.

Anticipating that you will come up with a minus figure after you subtract the total of Fixed and Flexible Expenses from Spendable Income, we will discuss ways to cut expenses in the next and last column in this series next Wednesday, March 6.

Residents Go Underground

What It's Like to Spend
24 Hours in a Bomb Shelter

BY ELIZABETH ALANNE

ABOVE—The end of the 24-hour shelter stay held in Mount Prospect Fire Station 2 last Friday and Saturday was greeted with smiles. Although the 76 occupants remained in good spirits throughout the stay, the experience was sometimes uncomfortable and baring to most.

RIGHT—A girl assigned to the shelter's medical facility looks a much less joyful problem.

BELOW—Sleeping accommodations were minimal, as was sleep itself. This weary shelter occupant had a sleeping bag, but some had to make do with only a blanket.

Shelter occupants cluster around the emergency radio unit in a corridor at the underground site where the United States and the mythical country of Kibbutz is said to share civil defense facilities a multidisciplinary team and the radio equipment, said.

the appearance of television camera crews from two Chicago broadcasting stations, who filmed segments of the stay. Radio coverage of the shelter stay was repeated hourly on WCFL-TV in Chicago throughout the night and was relayed to the shelter.

THE FINAL TWO HOURS was devoted to a thorough clean-up of the area, part of belongings and a critique for the shelter management personnel indicating areas which had gone smoothly or which had been handled well. Members of the shelter management course were given certificates before the shelter stay ended. Participants described the experience as a success and said the shelter managers handled the many unfamiliar details well.

Although the 24-hours had not been an ordeal, everyone seemed happy to leave. It meant a return to a real meal and soft mattresses and a glimpse of something beyond gray concrete walls.

Although for many the shelter stay was only a change of pace and evidently for many of the children, a game, the underlying purpose serious, for such accommodations would be essential if many were to survive a nuclear attack.

THE SHELTERS DO NOT only serve as fallout protection, Martin said. It is important to remember that these shelters are also available in case of natural disasters or local emergency, such as tornadoes or floods, which would leave many people stranded or temporarily without homes. There are even shelters in Mount Prospect, stocked with supplies obtained through the federal government which underwrites the bulk of local civil defense activities.

Civil Defense, which offers training courses to the public throughout the year, will begin a RADEF course, in the use of radiation detection and monitoring devices on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in fire station no. 2. The course will have six consecutive Wednesday sessions taught by Mount Prospect Fireman Robert Fendall and a member of the Des Plaines Civil Defense unit. Those wishing to register for the first course may call Larry Paritz at the fire department, CL 3-3930.

LEFT—Each shelter occupant filled out a data form after being assigned to a space in the shelter. The room which contains "bunks" for 24 hours.

BELOW—A medical radiological check was made as each person involved in the civil defense experiment entered the shelter in the basement of the fire station.

Shelter managers for the first part of the stay were Lowell Foll of Mount Prospect, who said setting up the shelter was a "bumpy" experience. The comfort of occupants was the most difficult part of the job.

RIGHT—Meals were small, a high-protein meal and a small cup of water, dispensed at regular intervals by shelter occupants in charge of food.

The United States was "under attack" last weekend during a civil defense exercise which ended 70 years after the destruction in Mount Prospect for 24 hours.

The setting, in the basement of Mount Prospect Fire Station No. 2, was the police department plant range and an adjoining wide, L-shaped corridor.

The participants included members of civil defense organizations from six communities, several people who had completed the lecture portion of a civil defense shelter management course and residents who volunteered for the 24-hour shelter stay. Nearly half these people were children and teenagers, some of whom accompanied their parents and others from Roy Scout, Camp Fire Girl and Girl Scout groups.

The instructors of the shelter management course, Mount Prospect Fireman Donald Bern and W. Roy Martin, liaison officer between civil defense here and the military, were present as observers, as was Larry Paritz, director of the Mount Prospect Civil Defense Unit. Active members from civil defense groups in Wheeling, Rolling Meadows, Skokie, Des Plaines, and Niles were present and some volunteers also came from Arlington Heights.

AT 7:30 P.M. FRIDAY, the participants began to enter the shelter, where for 24 hours, the living conditions and procedures would resemble as closely as possible, situations which would occur if a nuclear attack had forced residents into a fallout shelter.

Entering the shelter each person was given a march screening for radioactivity by a member of the Skokie RADEF unit, which operates a variety of radiological devices and monitoring devices. The Skokie unit also had an emergency operation manual. The BOC, set up in a corridor and throughout the night, civil defense workers sent out reports preplanned in connection with the shelter stay. It was from this unit that regular reports on "radiation levels" outside and the progress of the "war" and "negotiations" were delivered to the shelter house to time.

During the 24-hours, three different shelter managers gave the responsibility for coordinating activities. The first, Lowell Foll of Mount Prospect, had the difficult task of coordinating the many services needed for the occupants.

Among the facilities set up during the first two hours were a medical area, food and water, sleeping area, washrooms, and a control room for the shelter managers' records and reports. Other occupants were appointed to take charge of safety, security, and communications.

EACH PERSON ENTERING the shelter filled out a form indicating personal data, occupation and any special skills that could be utilized in the shelter operation.

Foll, who had completed the shelter management course, said the biggest problem was the confusion involved in trying to select people for the various units and get everything into operation at once. Those who acted as shelter managers for the second and third portions of the operation, Douglas Lewis of Mount Prospect and Norman Lewis of Des Plaines, found other difficulties, such as the shelter set up by the instructors and the reluctance of some occupants after several hours in the shelter.

Even under fairly crowded conditions the occupants were cheerful and cooperative, although sometimes behind a certain fence. The shelter residents were, like all supplies, from the federal civil defense stock. Each shelter occupant received a small cup of water and a high-protein cracker which resembled a Graham cracker. That was dinner. And breakfast. And lunch.

SLEEPING ACCOMMODATIONS were provided by the occupants and ranged from sleeping bags and air mattresses, brought by the more fortunate, down to cotton blankets. All shelter occupants slept on concrete floors. Although the majority of shelter occupants slept throughout the night, the observers and radio operators, along with a few other volunteers, remained up for the entire 24 hours.

The normal daytime routine began at about 7:30 a.m., with the occupants' breakfast and the adult lobby-visit.

Boredom, said Paritz, is a factor the shelter manager must try to cope with in any shelter program so most adults and teenagers were given tasks to do, from serving the food ration to helping long queues.

In keeping with federal requirements, members of the RADEF unit showed the occupants how detection and monitoring equipment is used. A practical demonstration of fire extinguishers was also included.

AT ONE POINT, a woman who complained of illness, was found to have an existing heart condition, and had nearly convulsed all the officials that she had suffered a heart attack. Two occupants gave the medical team a chance to perform and one fireman disconnected the shelter temporarily when he burst in from an outside door with food, but realistic-looking, open wounds.

The shelter also experienced a power failure and a jamming of radio reception, all of which was received by the occupants with a minimum of excitement.

PERHAPS BECAUSE it obviously was only an experiment, there was a lack of any tension, but at times the conditions were uncomfortable and occasionally a departure from what people expect at home. The youngsters did not cheer appropriately when the "end of the war" was announced Saturday morning.

Activities in the shelter were videotaped periodically on equipment loaned to the Mount Prospect Civil Defense unit by the Ampex Corp.

Toward the closing hours of the shelter stay, those who had been up for the entire time were showing signs of fatigue and one man expressed a desire for "a much unexcited in pork chops." But the fatigue and boredom were relieved by

Police Manpower Trailing Population, Crime Increases

By CHARLES MOURATIDES

Arlington Heights police force numerically is falling behind population growth and the increase in crime rate. Police Chief L. W. Calderwood has told the board of trustees' finance committee.

Questioned by Trustee Ray Bruehl in a preliminary hearing on the proposed 1968-69 police budget, Chief Calderwood said that the increase in population of crime "taken as pretty thin."

The same seems to be true of the village fire department if the local fire-fighting force is compared to national manpower standards.

But the fire department's situation is not considered as serious because of an agreement among several neighboring suburban fire departments to assist each other during emergencies.

It seems although both the police chief and Fire Chief Harvey Carothers should need more men, that they have not asked for them because of opposition by the village administration.

BOTH CHIEFS have stated in finance committee hearings that additional men are needed to meet nationally set standards. A Hanson told Bruehl, who inquired on the police department, "I would not say we are going behind."

Bruehl asked, "How do you figure that?" The village population increased at an average rate of about 10 per cent annually. In 1967, the population was 8,000, or about 16 per cent, from an estimated 6,800 in 1966.

The crime rate, according to Chief Calderwood, has risen by 12 to 27 per cent, depending on the nature of crime.

Yes, the proposed increase in department manpower is about 6 per cent—two full-time and two half-time positions.

The budget, at its new stands, proposes a total of 35 patrolmen, five sergeants, five lieutenants, one identification officer and two half-time public service officers.

Trustee John J. Webb Jr., chairman of the finance committee, said he was concerned about the future when, presumably, the lack of policemen could create a manpower crisis.

CHIEF CALDERWOOD said he thought there should be one policeman for every 1,000 residents here.

That would necessitate adding six policemen in addition to those now proposed and probably more by the time the new budget goes into effect.

The police chief said that Chicago has one policeman for every 400 persons and Evanston has one for every 750. Arlington Heights' ratio is one for every 1,120.

Bruehl asked for better protection for the parks, especially during the summer.

The park district, according to Hanson, has not approached the village for special police protection for about two years.

The finance committee decided to contact the park district's administration in an effort to stimulate interest in closer protection.

The proposed police budget is about $1 million, or about $400 more than what was budgeted last year.

Pay for policemen and other personnel listed in the administrator's budget accounts for about $517,000.

Bomb Threat Is Felony

The Elk Grove village police department has warned that bomb scare phone calls such as those made recently to Harper College, are felonies, punishable by imprisonment and a fine.

The college received its third bomb scare call Tuesday night. All classes were evacuated from their temporary quarters at Elk Grove High School (Loomis) were emptied Wednesday afternoon and Monday when bomb threats were received by the college's switchboard.

Police are still in investigation.

Although the bomb threats have proven false, 125 dollars were expended as a safety measure on the three evenings the calls were made.

After the last bomb scare, Harper President Robert Lahti pointed out the need for being prepared to handle such incidents with orderly procedure.

Ton Burgeon, 32, of Forest Hill, N.Y. driver of the car in the accident in which and Landerbrook, near Elk Grove Village, was admitted to St. Alex's Hospital Wednesday morning and is in fair condition. The name of the truck driver and details of the accident were not available from Illinois State Police. Hospital officials said the truck driver was not injured as St. Alex's after the accident.

State's Attorney Refuses To Prosecute District 23

By LARRY WILKS

The Illinois state attorney's office has indicated that criminal charges leveled against members of Project Heggin School District 23 Board of Education for holding an allegedly illegal secret meeting will not be brought to court.

The door was left open for possible civil court action.

The announcement brought mixed reactions from officials throughout the state.

Louis Carrigano of the state attorney's office said that there is not sufficient evidence to prosecute the board on a charge that a secret meeting was held Jan. 27 in the PM hall to appear this evening at District President Robert Heggin. The charge was made by Mrs. J. Ellen Carrigano, 201 N. Lincoln, who filed the complaint last Friday.

CARRIGANO said that, in addition to the letter that Mrs. Carrigano sent him, he had only some news clippings, which alleged that the meeting took place at all there was no definite evidence, he said.

which would indicate that the meeting was held.

"If someone wants to file a civil suit," he said, "the board could be brought to court, but under such, and forced to tell whether the meeting actually took place, and what the subject of the meeting was."

The announcement brought an angry reply from State Rep. Anthony Scaramo (D-14) of Rockford, the author of the open meetings law which he introduced last year. "We know there was a meeting," he said, "the board members have said so." Whether the meeting was illegal is not for the state attorney to determine, he said, but for the judge to decide.

He said that the board is not a secret meeting, but as presented to the public.

deceased. The school board received an opinion from the office of the county superintendent of schools that the fee charged for each child is not legal. The fee has been in effect this school year only.

Assistant superintendent for county schools, Wendell Noyes, said that the opinion on the $10 fee was "a very strong opinion" and that the board is not a secret meeting, but as presented to the public.

Des Plaines Man Accused Of Battery

James Althoff, 44, of Des Plaines, was arrested by Arlington Heights Police Wednesday on charges of battery and criminal damage to property.

Complaints against him were signed by Mrs. Corne Canfield of Wheeling.

She told Arlington Heights Police she drove into a Texas Service Station on Gulf and Arlington Heights Rd. when Althoff was an attendant, and for directions.

Mrs. Canfield said Althoff was belligerent toward her and drove a low truck into her car.

Asked if he was prepared to contest legally the local ordinance, Schlickman said, "In face of the pending application for a preliminary plan of subdivision, I would make no threats."

Ryan-Trapani claimed they had settled the request for dedication of land with the Arlington Park District and Elementary School Dist. 59.

Mayor Comment on Woods Subur Merger Plan

Heads of the 10 villages included in Mayor John G. Woods' proposal of consolidation have accepted an invitation to meet at 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 27 in the PM hall to appear this evening at 7 p.m. in a special broadcast.

The program will last one hour. A member of the Harper College faculty will serve as moderator.

Earlier this week The City Council of the Harper College faculty, asking how they reacted to the Woods proposal.

All village Mayor Daniel Congrove of Mount Prospect said that they favored exploring the possibility of merging, but that his village would have more to lose than to gain from consolidation.

There is a person of conversations with the 10 mayors.

WHEELING, Mayor Ted Scanlon - When you have a sleeping day, a quick way you can wake him up is to open his mail, and we have certainly done that.

SCHAUMBURG, Mayor Robert Aicher - There is tremendous plans and I think that the people here are surprisingly few-minded that they will be hard to resist.

ROLLING MEADOWS, Mayor Roland J. Meyer - A far reaching long range idea that needs careful attention. Our police chiefs have for several years been urging our villages to consider setting up a single police department in order to improve law enforcement in the northern suburbs.

PALATINE, Mayor John L. Moorme - Very interesting! I am of the opinion that if this proposal has any chance of success it will be necessary to find a way to preserve the basic differences between our communities.

BROOKFIELD HEIGHTS, Robert Carson (President of Home Owners Assn.) - We attempted to join Mount Prospect two years ago. The Woods proposal may come at a renewed opportunity for Prospect Heights.

DEW PLAINES, Mayor Herbert H. Behrer - I haven't talked to John Woods. It stunned me when I heard of the merger on the Howard Miller Center. But when I heard the Daily News has an editorial on the proposal today (Saturday), pointing out that this idea could be developed into something of importance and commending John Woods on his courage in making such a proposal.

BUFFALO GROVE, Mayor Donald Thompson - This certainly is a very great undertaking. Its complication is enormous. Buffalo Grove will be 10 years old in March. We have joined the Northwestern Municipal Conference. The Council has been studying the consolidation of Cook County is just getting started. We have to see our program work first and then perhaps the Woods suggestion will be a long logical step.

Suburban Officials To Air Merger Views

Officials of 10 northwest suburbs involved in a proposed merger plan unveiled last week by Arlington Heights Mayor William L. Sawyer will meet tonight during a one-hour radio program to be broadcast over radio station WFLD 1040.

Edward Kallie, a history instructor at Harper Junior College will moderate the program. Representatives of the villages involved are: Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hill Country, Village of Prospect Heights and Wheeling.

The program will be aired at 7 p.m.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Mayor John Woods - Had this time of consolidation taken place earlier, I am sure that the Mayor of Schaumburg, who is a very experienced man, would have been consulted years ago. Think what it would have meant to reduce or avoid the damage which took place in our village last June.

Gripe Of The Day

It was as unusual as the struggle. A low-born before play to begin. Martin's partner had come. He debated whether he would even go to the Sherman Hotel at all.

Atten minutes after he arrived, Atlanta Kurni told him that her partner had been ill and could not play. She wanted to know. He wanted to know. He wanted to know. He wanted to know.

School Hopefuls Scramble For Top Spot on Ballots

Who gets the top spot on ballots for school board candidates in the April 13, 1968, election? The candidates who show up first in a petition that 50 registered voters have signed.

Yesterday was the first day that candidates could file. School Dist. 27 in Mount Prospect had seven candidates, but it has only four vacancies on the board.

No one showed up today to file in Dist. 59 in Elk Grove or in River Trails, Dist. 26, though candidates in each district have announced plans to run.

Here is the current district super-order of the order in which candidates will appear on the ballot.

ARLINGTON Heights, Dist. 25: Theodore Seitz, 254 S. Walnut; Robert C. Bann, 131 E. Campbell; Ronald R. Gasser, 123 N. Chicago.

Mount Prospect, Dist. 57: Mrs. Nancy P. Holt, 121 N. Russell; Mrs. Patricia B. Kimball, 600 Co-Wanda, and Jack R. Rosenthal, 114 S. William, all candidates for three-year terms. James B. Frankowski, 1718 Vander, and Charles W. Hootman, 318 S. Albert, both candidates for two-year terms.

Prospect Heights, Dist. 15: William G. Jones, 1333 Taylor Tr.; Howard Meadows, 437 N. Invermay; Mrs. Patricia Oakley, 259 Cherry Ln.; J. Lettie Ehringer, 134 N. Cady, all of Palestine.

Riverton, Dist. 26: No one yet has filed.

Elk Grove, Dist. 59: No one yet has filed.

Waukegan, Dist. 21: Ronald Weiner, 904 Pebble Dr.; Whelan, Jeremiah Criss, 611 W. Hintz; Arlington Heights, Shirley Wilton, 1024 Anthony Rd.; Whelan, Duane Anley, 937 Pebble Dr.; Whelan, Prospect Heights, Dist. 23: Melvin A. Lucc, 3 Glen-Cl. Patrick J. Treacy, E. E. Clarendon, Edward W. Spier Jr., 1911 Jossell Ter., Arlington Heights; Roy E. Wills, 303 E. Olive.

HIGH SCHOOL, Dist. 214: Richard A. Baubacher, 625 S. Edward; Mount Prospect, Harold Hamill, 102 Carriage; Hoffman, 244 Cheryl Ln., Palestine; John Haas, 500 Hillcrest.

Prospect Heights, and Raymond A. Sklar, 712 Linden, Arlington Heights, for three-year terms; LeRoy Janshous, 1002 W. Gregory, Mount Prospect; and William A. Deagan, 429 S. Cedar, Palestine, for two-year terms; John L. Kuran, Mt. Prospect; L.A. Rd., Barrington, for a one-year term.

The final date for filing is March 23.

Man Held for Sale Of Beer to Minors

A 22-year-old Oak Park man has been arrested by Arlington Heights police and charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors after allegedly selling beer and selling it to juveniles.

Paul W. Raymond is free on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights Branch of Circuit Court March 15.

Events reported to police Monday led to the arrest of Raymond Wednesday evening.

Mrs. W.M. Kishaban of 9 S. Dwyer, told police Monday

she saw two teenage boys place two bags under a bush on church property at Dwyer and Campbell.

Police found a total of five cans of beer in the bags. They were near the intersection and one-half hour later two 15-year-old Arlington Heights boys went to the spot to retrieve the bags.

THE BOYS were arrested and brought to the police station. They were scheduled to meet to the station Tuesday with their parents.

The boys told police they asked Raymond to purchase the beer, a total of 32 six-packs, for them and they agreed to pay a $5 "service charge."

The youths, their parents and police, Wednesday went to the Paul Brothers store in Arlington Heights, where Raymond works as a salesman.

He was reportedly identified by one of the boys and arrested later in the Arlington Heights Police station.

Police said the youths were told by another student at Arlington High School how to contact Raymond to purchase the beer.

An investigation by detectives is continuing.

Arlington Heights Mayor-At-Large Gary W. Wines and judges for the 1968 award met Wednesday to begin the selection process for the new winner. Selection is based on activities which occurred during the year 1967. Standing, left to right, are Wayne Brennan, winner of the award in 1962; Richard A. Cowen, 1967 winner; and Lloyd Meyer, winner in 1966. Front row, left to right, are John Stahl, chairman of the selection committee for 1968, and judges John Walsh and Dr. Robert Gilbert. Donald Morton, also a judge, was not present.

4 Local Bridge Players Score High in Tourney

LIFE MASTER ranking is achieved when a player has won 300 points in recognized bridge play. Of the 300 points, 250 can be won in local tournaments such as are held in Arlington Heights, Wilmette, Park Ridge and a number of other Chicago suburbs and in Chicago neighborhoods. Not points can be won only in sectional or national tournaments.

The Central States Regional Tournament usually is held in Chicago during late winter. Previously it has been played at the Palmer House, but since then it was shifted to the Sheraton where play required several floors. At times play was going on at each of the 1000 tables. There is a national bridge tournament held every year, but it is shifted from city to city.

Martin, who is assistant to the superintendent of High School Dist. 214, rarely mentions his bridge playing to his non-bridge playing friends. He took little interest in bridge until he moved to Arlington Heights 12 years ago.

He and Martin began standing bridge parties and he became so interested in the game that he decided to make a major recreation of it as some persons do fishing or hunting. He has played in tournaments from St. Louis to Minneapolis. He became a life master player three years ago.

board, then it would be ridiculous to pursue a civil case."

Jones attempted to present the apparent confusion over the prosecution of the law, by describing its implementation as "nebulous." He said "if the meeting is secret, then nobody knows about it. If it is an open meeting, then only the people at that session know what the subject to be discussed is."

Whether the matter over which he court action, Jones said that the main question in the public mind of an elected body. "Any public official who hides from the public on his own position," he said. "What we're talking about is public relations and how we deal with the public. This business has been obvious to me for a long time since I have been in public official."

Attorney General William C. Clark said that the state's attorney's office may be hesitant to become involved in the school district's affairs at this time since there is an election slated for April. He said, however, that he would examine the circumstances of the case if a Dist. 23 resident would present the facts to him.

One Man Hurt In Accident

A Mount Prospect resident suffered minor injuries Wednesday morning in a four-car collision on Northwestern Highway.

Joseph Wondam, 1910 Halstead, was taken to Northwestern Community Hospital, sustained for a possible whiplash injury and released after his auto and three others collided while going east from Hinsdale St.

Other drivers involved in the crash but not injured were Wallace Williams, 422 S. Yale, Arlington Heights; William J. Brien, 1110 Woodview, Mount Prospect; and Joseph J. Brien, Arlington Heights.

Break-in Fails

Raymond Pingle, 1720 Main Ln., reported to Mount Prospect Police Wednesday that someone tried to break into his house and tampered with the front door.

Raps Park Rule

AT THE TIME of the development, the school district was not interested in having a site in its property because it was outside district boundaries and the park district preferred a combined site with the school.

Miller Builders bought the land from Ryan-Trapani but reportedly said the park site would be located in the single-family district.

Ryan-Trapani last night said the site should have been located in the Miller Builders' part of the land. Miller Builders, the argument post, paid money instead of dedicating land, so the requirement was not satisfied. Fred Amis, chairman of the plan commission, said that in order to approve the Ryan-Trapani preliminary plan for a park site he decided to dedicate.

Test Your Mental Agility In Day's Mathematics Games

BY JAN BONE
St. Charles

How logical are your solutions for these math problems, suggested to The Day by James E. Gross, sixth-grade teacher at Winston Park School in Palmetto?

Just in case you're stumped, the answers appear below.

The first problem gives you eight marbles on a balance scale, all the same size, shape, and color. All are equal in weight — except one which is heavier. You have a balance scale you can use. Can you find the heavy marble in only two weighings?

Problem number two concerns a man with a five-gallon bucket and a three-gallon bucket who is handed for a nearby well. He needs exactly four gallons of water. How can he get it accurately, using only the two buckets he's carrying?

The third math problem is about a man with two Cub Scouts who wants to cross a river in a small boat. The boat will hold either the man, or the two boys, but isn't big enough for all of them at the same time. How do they manage?

Both Gross and his wife are Dist. 15 teachers. He teaches a sixth-grade class, and she teaches French.

Sanitary Dist. To Get OK for Sewage Plant

The Metropolitan Sanitary District trustees today will receive a recommendation to approve the $24,000,000 sewage treatment plant designed to combat water pollution.

Trustees Jerry Marks, chairman of the engineering committee of the board, and Tuesday he will recommend construction of the plant although he still has some reservations about it.

His reservation, he said, are based on the fact that the project was never before tried on such a great scale and the total cost of the sewers to be connected with the plant will cost another $24,000,000.

A second plant is scheduled to be built later. The O'Hare plant will be completed by 1968. The O'Hare plant will be completed by 1968.

These two plants are not included in the $600,000 the sanitary district plans to spend in the next five years for water retention basins.

Highly only indirectly.

THE O'HARE plant is designed to relieve water pollution in Arlington Heights.

Marks said that engineering work on the new plant will begin as soon as the sanitary district trustees approve the project.

A little fishing pond may be built nearby some time in the future, which would use water from the plant, Marks said.

From their engineering for the Salt Creek plant is approved, construction is scheduled to start in 1968.

The O'Hare plant will be completed by 1968. The O'Hare plant will be completed by 1968.

These two plants are not included in the $600,000 the sanitary district plans to spend in the next five years for water retention basins.

Teacher-Coach Wins New Car, He Thinks

BY LINDA GAMMILL

BRADLEY PLYNN, a mathematics teacher and football coach at Arlington High School, thinks he won a 1968 green Buick Wildcat with gold interior last night when he won the car.

Plynn bought a ticket to a raffle at the University of Notre Dame last night when he was in the class of James Ulrich, head of the Math Dept. at Arlington. The prize was to St. George's College near Notre Dame, and he was invited to the Mardi Gras Dance at Notre Dame.

Ulrich asked Plynn if he might like to buy a ticket to the raffle for $1.

"I NEVER gave a thought to winning," said Plynn. In fact, he bought a ticket for $1. He donated $1 to Notre Dame.

Shady night, Ulrich called Plynn and said him that people at Notre Dame were "talking about him." Ulrich's daughter had called that night and said that Plynn's name had been announced as the winner of the car.

There was no official notification from the school.

The Plynn waited for the mail to come Monday morning, thinking that there might be something to let them know they were the winners.

Nothing.

SO PLYNN called the school and asked to talk to anybody that was on the staff. He was contacted with a student who said that he "thought the winner was from Arlington Heights," but he didn't know the name.

Plynn left his phone number just in case someone would call to collect and said he'd be ready to go to the car or not.

HE CALLED the school a second time and talked to a different student who said that he thought that was the name of the winner.

Plynn said again to be notified if he really was the winner.

Around 8:30 p.m. Monday, when Plynn was teaching night school, a call from the school finally came naming the winner as Plynn.

"I'm very thankful," said Plynn, who is married and has a 15-month-old daughter. "It's always been a loyal Notre Dame fan."

Dialogue

"There's been a lot of talk about President Johnson's travel, the one that is to be imposed on a vacationer who decides to travel to another country for a change."

"But instead of everyone complaining about it, why don't we try a little positive thinking for once? Maybe even I'd could come up with a better idea, one that would keep people in this country, or let them be happy."

"And that way, our country's balance of payments problem would be solved without the imposition of another tax."

"I suspect that from the way you started out, you have a solution. So let's hear it."

"All right. I'm glad you you want to prevent people from spending their money in another country is to give them similar attractions here."

"What we could do is establish various places around the United States that would duplicate the treatment tourists would like in another country."

"Yes, yes, like the Disneyland?"

"Not exactly. But sort of. What we'd have to do is find various spots that would duplicate the stimuli of the countries people would like to visit from."

"The ones we would set tourist attractions in each spot that would duplicate the tourists found in that country. For example, for the people who would like to go to France, we would have a place, maybe in Chicago, that would resemble a part of Paris."

"How about Old Town?"

...with George Hamilton

"There's no idea, it might just work out. We could get a band of hippies to go around spreading French and insulting people. And we would allow the shops to legally overcharge everyone and one of our balance of payment problems would be solved."

"Now I'm getting the idea. What about England?"

"Chicago would duplicate a lot of conditions treatments would find there."

"The Congress would could check the weather the day and not on the time of the year Chicago has the same weather on average days. Tourists who had wanted to go to London would make reservations in a Chicago hotel instead."

"And the hotel manager could shut off the heat in their rooms and talk with an accountant. The tourists would have to go to a home stay with an authentic case of London soup."

"For those who want to go to England to see the Ascot races, we could arrange to have a horse race in Chicago and have a bunch of well-known jockeys to ride the horses."

"I wonder if we could arrange for the 'Bomber' attraction for Mount Prospect."

"It's possible. Maybe we could duplicate England to see your medical expenses dig a most around the town and have a drawbridge on either end of Northwest Highway. I could be pulled over every night at the rate of $300,000."

Mayor Converse, wearing the Prospect Knight's suit of armor."

Don't Overlook Any Legitimate Deductions

BY JAMES L. SHODEN
(Washington (UPI))

It's a wise lawyer who knows his own deductions.

Deductions have the effect of reducing the amount of income on which you are required to pay taxes. They are intended to compensate the taxpayer for certain types of expenditures which Congress has deemed to be worthy of special treatment.

You must first decide whether you want to claim a standard deduction, or itemize your deductions.

THERE ARE TWO ways of claiming a standard deduction. The most common is to deduct 10 per cent of your "adjusted gross income," which means your total income less any money you are entitled to deduct or exclude such as certain employee expenses, sick pay, etc., as described in the previous article in this series.

Thus, if your adjusted gross income was $5,456, you'd be entitled to a 10 per cent standard deduction of $545.60.

Or you could claim what is called the "minimum standard deduction." This amounts to $200 plus $100 for each exemption to which you're entitled.

A married couple with three children would be entitled to a minimum standard deduction of $700.

The 10 per cent standard deduction will work out better than the minimum standard deduction for everyone except large families of quite modest income.

THE BIG HITCH in either form of standard deduction is the fact that $1,000 is the absolute maximum you can claim in this way. Even if your income was $10,000, your ceiling is a standard deduction of $1,000.

It's unlikely that you'll itemize deductions if you paid income taxes on a home mortgage, contributed substantial sums to churches or charities, had unusually high medical bills, paid alimony, or suffered a loss of a business or investment by insurance.

There's nothing on the total amount you can claim if you itemize deductions. But there are special rules that apply to various types of deductions.

Here are the types of deductions which concern most taxpayers.

MEDICAL EXPENSES: You can claim a deduction for one-half of the amount you spent on medical insurance coverage, up to a limit of $150, without subtracting 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income. In other words, you can claim this deduction regardless of how much or how little your other medical expenses were.

Then you add up your other medical and dental expenses and subtract the total from the sum of the medical insurance payments, state the total comes to more than 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income, you can claim a deduction for the balance which is excess 3 per cent.

However, the cost of drugs and medicines may be figured into your medical expenses only to the extent that it exceeds 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

For example, if your adjusted gross income was $10,000, and your drug bills came to $175, you would first deduct $100, or 1 per cent of the $10,000, which is $100, from the $175, leaving $75. But $75 has been counted among your medical expenses. And your total tax credit would be deductible only to the extent that they exceed $300, which is 3 per cent of $10,000.

But you could claim half of your medical insurance costs, even if your total medical bills came to less than $300.

CONTRIBUTIONS: You may deduct contributions to most charities, including churches and schools, up to 30 per cent of your income.

Contributions to fraternal and veterans groups, trusts, and private foundations are deductible up to 20 per cent of your income.

INTEREST: You may deduct the interest you paid on a home mortgage, bank loan, or installment purchase.

TAXES: A wide variety of state and local taxes are deductible. These include real estate taxes, gasoline taxes, personal sales taxes, and federal income taxes and personal property taxes may NOT take a deduction for any local taxes.

Letters to the Editor

One More Vote For Village Government

Editor: As a citizen of Mount Prospect I am proud to say that I favor our present form of government. I voted for it and I support it. I enjoy and intend to defend its sovereignty.

We have a fine village president and board of trustees. Our police and fire departments are excellent. In Mount Prospect you get more for your tax dollar than any other northwest community.

Our schools are excellent. Our local merchants are highly civic minded. We have one of the finest school systems.

Mount Prospect is a safe and strong area. Robbery and rape are not at the top of our crime statistics. New we are told to make all this for the advantages of this city.

What is so desirable about becoming a big city? Big boys are not always the best.

Most suburban residents live out here because even though they pay taxes they can still get a comparatively fair return for their dollar in the form of good education, police and fire protection, and a voice in the government that can be heard because their community has no one so cumbersome that most get served adequately.

Under Mr. Woods plan, the profits of the suburbs would be lost the very thing that makes the suburbs so desirable.

If the people of the suburbs really want to assume big city status and pay taxes to solve them and look at the big city and vote it in — you deserve it.

same legal means the 10-town referendum would be developed by Chicago and I believe most of its problems and all of its bills.

Most suburban residents live out here because even though they pay taxes they can still get a comparatively fair return for their dollar in the form of good education, police and fire protection, and a voice in the government that can be heard because their community has no one so cumbersome that most get served adequately.

Stop Signs Approved For Corner Where 3 Youths Hurt in Crash

The Arlington Heights engineering department has decided to place two-way stop signs at the corner of Hawthorne and Douglas in not high compared to other intersections of the village. According to police reports, there were three accidents at the intersection between August, 1967, and February, 1968.

The action came as a result of a request to L. A. Hanson, village manager, by residents. Hanson had the engineering department investigate and received a report favoring stop signs at the corner.

POLICE RECORDS indicate that accident rates on Hawthorne and Douglas is not high compared to other intersections of the village. According to police reports, there were three accidents at the intersection between August, 1967, and February, 1968.

Intersection in the village that led to accident rates and number of accidents since the beginning of 1968 are Algonquin Rd. at Algonquin Heights Rd. 12 accidents; Central and Algonquin Heights Rd. 12 accidents; Northwest Hwy. and Algonquin Heights Rd. 12 accidents; Palatka and Algonquin Heights Rd. 12 accidents.

5 Eagle Scouts Get A Taste of Civic Ben

BY LINDA GAMMILL
Five Eagle Scouts participated in the Northwest Suburban Council's "Sponsor for a Day" program Tuesday at Waters Electric Regional Center, 3800 Golf Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Three of the Scouts are from Mount Prospect; Gary Grando of 404 S. Emerson, David Fisher of 100 S. William St., and T. Terry Lyman of 21 N. LaSalle. The other two are Peter Lochner of Palatine and Matthew Van Winkle of Hoffman Estates.

Each Scout was sponsored by a local business or professional man who shared his vocational interest.

The program included a tour of the building, a lunch-dinner in the executive dining room, movies, and an Eagle Scout recognition dinner at the Motorola Corp. in Schaumburg.

Library Bd. Approves Budget of $260,000

BY LINDA GAMMILL
A $260,000 budget for the fiscal year 1968-69 was approved by the Arlington Heights Library Board in a special meeting last week.

The budget listed income of $229,000 from miscellaneous library receipts, $20,000 from insurance, $10,000 from book loss in last year's flood, and $7,000 from a partial payment for the 1967-68 library life by School Dist. 25 where the new library is opened.

The budget is "slightly overstated," according to the board's bookkeeper, because the board hopes to offset the bill by the law. The exact amount of the bill will be worked out in conjunction with the county.

THE CARPETING has been made specially for this library, and it will take about six weeks to order more.

The boy was given six traffic citations for driving without a driver's license, damage to private property, damage to public property, reckless driving, and leaving the scene of an accident.

Area Regionals Open Monday at 3 Schools

Area high school basketball squads will travel to three separate state regional tournaments next week.

Local action in the Addition Trail competition will open on Wednesday, March 6, with seventh-seeded Elk Grove meeting second-seeded East Leyden at 7 p.m. If the Grizzlies survive their first round test, they will return Thursday 7 p.m. to do battle with the winner of Wednesday's Weavertown North-Farmington clash.

PROSPECT will face Glenbrook South on Thursday, March 3, at 7 p.m. to open the lower bracket of the Knight Regional. Later that evening, third-seeded Grant will face Forest View. The winners of these games will face one another on Thursday, March 7, and a sole bracket champion will advance to the finals on Friday.

Top-seeded Wheeling will open its home regional on Monday, March 6, at 7 p.m. at its least favored Palmyra. Other Monday night action will pit fourth-seeded Fremont against the winner of the Vandevoorde District, which is being decided this week.

TUESDAY ACTION will see second-seeded Barrington against seventh-seeded Arlington and third-seeded Mundeville against sixth-seeded St. Vrain.

First-round games will be held on Wednesday, March 6, while the second-round playoffs will take place on Thursday, March 7. Finals at all regionals will be held on Friday, March 8 at 7 p.m. WVVC radio (92.7 FM) will be covering the Prospect Regional starting Monday, March 8 at 7 p.m.

ALL RIGHT, YOU TALKED ME INTO IT--I'LL LET HIM STAY UP TO SEE THE MOVIE! BUT I'LL HOLD YOU RESPONSIBLE FOR PRODDING HIM OUT OF BED TWO HOURS EARLIER THAN USUAL IN THE MORNING, SEEING TO IT THAT HE GETS WASHED AND DRESSED WHILE HE'S STILL HALF ASLEEP, KEEPING HIM AWAKE TO DO HIS HOMEWORK, AND READY FOR BREAKFAST AT 7:30! GOOD NIGHT. GOOD SHOW, AND GOOD LUCK!

YOU SURE HAND THIS BILL WITH THAT FANCY HOT DOD, HAZARD TAIL CLUB, MADE ENOUGH FOR A NIGHT AND PROG?

THE TREASURE HUNT TO FIND OUT WHO HAS THIS BILL IS THE BIGGEST SCRAMBLE IN THE COUNTRY! NO DOUBT!

MY BOOKKEEPER MUST HAVE OVERLOOKED IT, WASTED THIS LOU AS SO CARELESS HE!

WAST? SO IF I'VE SHARED OF THE PROCEEDS, WILL ONLY $50!

IF A HOUSE COULD TALK!

I was born about 50 years ago and they said that I wouldn't amount to very much because all I cost then was $4,000. I wasn't what you'd call a good looker, but as time went by, I improved. I added an extra bedroom, another bath and there was my new family room 10 years ago when the Browns lived here . . . so I've come along pretty good, even if I say so myself . . .

Actually, I bet I'm worth at least $20-25,000 or even more on today's market. I might sound like I'm bragging a little, but just look me over . . . oh, I might sag a little here and there, and my joints squeek now and then, and my plumbing backs up occasionally, and it takes a little more paint to cover my cracks, but for a 50 year old, I'm still in pretty good shape. Why just the other day, I heard that cute modern ranch down the street remark,

"She might be old, but is she ever built!"

Leaky Faucet Is Wasteful

The likeliest item around the house to need repairing - and need it fairly frequently - is the faucet. A leaky faucet is annoying, inconvenient, wasteful. The longer you let it go the worse it gets.

Learn to handle the repair yourself. The problem always will be with you. Plumbers are expensive. Call one for real problems.

Wrenches and screw drivers are undoubtedly among the tools you already own. Washers and packing are inexpensive and readily available at all hardware stores. Packaged washer assemblies are all right in the beginning when you are not sure of what you will need but are expensive in the long run since they contain a number of washers you never will use. Once you know the size you need for each faucet, make a note of it and stock up in advance.

NO MATTER how complicated the faucet appears, it can be easily taken apart and put back together. The cone exception is the new single-handle faucet. This is complicated mechanism of pins and gears.

It will seldom leak - when it does, have it repaired by a plumber.

The likeliest place for a leak to develop is the nozzle from which the water normally flows when the faucet is open. Next likely spot is from the bonnet which circles the stem and is found right below the handle.

FIRST STEP is to turn off the water. There generally is a shut-off valve for each line. If not, turn off the water at the main supply valve.

Start taking the faucet apart by removing the screw set into the handle. Then remove the handle from the stem. If it does not lift off easily give it a few taps on the underside.

Next, unscrew the bonnet nut with an adjustable wrench. Wrap it with tape first to protect the chrome plating. There may be a brass nut under this holding the stem in position. If there is, remove it. Construction may vary slightly but a few minutes' study should indicate how the faucet comes apart.

PULL THE handle back on the stem so you can turn it. Turn until you have removed it. The washer is on the bottom of the stem, held in place with a brass screw. Remove, discard and replace the washer. The washer should just fit inside the recessed area at the base of the stem. If it is too snug you may have to trim it by sanding or filing lightly.

Sometimes more than a worn washer is involved. The washer seat (a brass ring in the faucet against which the washer fits) may be rough. A turn of a seating tool (inexpensive, available all over) will smooth it. Some seats are removable with an Allen wrench and can be replaced. Reassemble in reverse order.

IF THERE is a leak around the bonnet try tightening the bonnet first. If this doesn't help - or if you have to tighten it so much you can't turn the stem - remove the bonnet and pry out the packing. This will be held in place by a metal washer.

Use either preformed or cord packing. If you use the cord type, wrap in a clockwise direction. Do not use too much or it will interfere with the operation of the faucet.

If there is leaking at the base of the swing spout on a kitchen faucet, try tightening the fitting first. If this doesn't work, remove the nut or retaining ring and take off the spout.

Inside the nut or ring there will packing or an O-ring - a round washer. Simply replace, reassemble and tighten.

It's Time To Think Of Spring

It may be dark and wintry now, but it is not too early to start thinking about spring, especially if your house is on the market or you are planning to list it in the near future.

This is the advice of John O. McCabe, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, who noted that spring is an advantageous time of the year to sell a home.

"Buyers have been cooped up all winter and now are anxious to get out into the open and out of the rut they have been forced into by the weather. Many prospective buyers have put off looking for a new home because they dreaded moving in the middle of winter."

"In addition, nature helps out by providing a pleasant setting of greenery and spring flowers for most homes."

MC CABE EXPLAINED that this is why home sellers should start early to get ready for the season. He recommended that owners clear the yard of any debris that has accumulated during the winter. As soon as possible, flower beds should be spaded and shaped, trees and shrubs should be cleared of dead branches, and later in the spring, easy-to-grow, inexpensive annual flowers should be planted to fill out the landscaping.

"Arrange yard furniture attractively, even before it is warm enough to use it. This will suggest to the prospective buyers relaxing summer evenings to come."

When readying the exterior of the house, take down storm windows and doors, touch up paint where necessary, or if required, repaint the entire house, McCabe advised.

TURNING TO THE INTERIOR of the house, McCabe suggested that windows be thrown open on the first mild day to air the house, paint and wallpaper be inspected and touched up, shades and curtains be opened to make rooms as airy and light as possible, and spring housecleaning be completed so every room is spotless from floor to ceiling (including windows). Closets and other storage areas

AT THE WALL

If you're planning to remodel or add a bathroom, consider tiling all of each wall, suggests the Tile Council of America. The cost will not be very much, if anything, more than installing a wainscot which involves expensive pieces of trim tile as well as extra fitting and cutting labor. And a full ceramic tile wall will bring a lifetime reward in easy maintenance, the Council adds.

should be neat and orderly, and, generally, the house should be at its best.

"Many of these suggestions are valid in summer, fall, and winter, as well as in the spring," he said. "For instance, a house on the market should be neat and clean, no matter what the season."

He noted also that his recommendations are for all home sellers and, therefore, have to be general. "Your Realtor can make suggestions for you and your house specifically. As a professional in real estate, he has had much experience with home buyers. He knows how they will react; what they will look for, and that is why it is wise to follow his recommendations when it comes to preparing a house for sale."

Kelley Promoted
By Baird & Warner

EDWARD N. KELLEY

Edward N. Kelley Jr., who became associated with Baird & Warner's Rogers Park office in management in 1958, has been elected vice-president of the 113-year-old real estate company, according to John W. Baird, president. Announcement of the promotion was made during the firm's annual dinner meeting last Thursday, at the Marriott Motor Hotel. He was named manager of Rogers Park management in 1960 and was elected assistant vice-president in 1966, when he was transferred to Baird & Warner's downtown office at 10 S. LaSalle Street to head the firm's urban re-development activities.

One of Kelley's first duties in that capacity was to supervise the leasing and management of South Commons, a unique concept in inner-city community living located between 31st, 26th, South Park and Michigan. When completed, South Commons will have 1,400 units, including high and low rise apartments available on a rental basis and town houses which may be purchased. Facilities will include a church, shopping center, parks, swimming pool, and a recreation building. He also is in charge of Noble Square, a 500-unit complex located on the near northwest side.

Kelley's interests have been real estate centered and currently he is serving as chairman of the Chicago Real Estate Board's Rental and Management Division. A certified property manager, he has taught the subject of property management at the Real Estate Institute and is a member of the South Side Planning Board. He holds membership in the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, Chicago Real Estate Board, Institute of Real Estate Management, and Junior Real Estate Board.

Kelley attended DePaul University and resides at 137 Cornell, Des Plaines, and has four children: Edward, 11, Debbie, 9, Craig, 6, and Lisa, 3. Prior to his marriage he lived in River Forest where he attended St. Vincent Ferrer grade school and Oak Park high school.

WATERLESS SINK

A "Waterless" sink may be just the answer to your living-room or family-room entertainment problems. "Waterless" because no plumbing connections are involved, it's a compartment sink with a built-in counter and lined with ceramic tile to make it suitable for icing beverages or food. A stoppered drain empties into a removable container underneath.

PROTECT CHILDREN FROM FALLS

What are the ways you can protect children from falls around the house? An expansion gate is an indispensable item for children. It keeps a toddler from toppling down stairs.

Spring gates come in two main styles. You can get a permanently installed type. Or, there are portable, spring action gates. They fit almost any size doorway and can be moved whenever needed.

Crib, of course, should have high sides. Bedrails and high chairs should have straps for holding children in securely. You can improve a strap. Tie a dress belt or even a towel around child and furniture.

Window screens should be securely fastened. It is not advisable to add bars to windows. In some cases they may be extremely attractive, as in the wrought iron styles. However, they greatly increase fire hazard.

Robert L. Nelson, Realtors offers "TRADE-A-HOME" service... the guaranteed home sale plan that not only assures the sale of your home but even advances you the equity cash before the home is sold. With "TRADE-A-HOME" service transferee can get the money to buy the home in their transferred location before their present home is sold.

Woods Explains Union Plan

Merger to Tame Federal Power

BY MEL MILES

Mayor John G. Woods of Arlington Heights last night said that the basic decision-making power of local suburban municipalities gradually is being eroded by pressure from the federal government.

Using the vast amount of funds now being spent by the federal government for municipal planning, Woods said, "I hope we can act in time before all our power is gone."

Woods made his statement during an hour-and-a-half radio program on radio station WNNC during which officials of the 10 northeast suburban towns, named by the mayor for possible incorporation into one city, discussed the plan.

Voicing sharp opposition to Woods' plan was Mayor Herbert Helms of Des Plaines, who said flatly, "I will never happen." Helms said that, since Woods announced his plan at a meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference last week, he had spoken to at least 1,000 residents of his city. "Every one of them spoke out in opposition to any type of consolidation," he said.

WOODS CLARIFIED his position on the proposal in a letter to the 10 towns in the broadcast when he explained that he never meant to suggest that the villages involved take immediate steps toward the creation of a giant suburban city.

"If you will remember my statement at the conference meeting," Woods said, "you will note that I merely mentioned that I think an immediate study should be undertaken to consider all aspects of incorporation."

Hebbed out at what he called "a forced issue" and accused the news media of blowing Woods' proposal out of proportion.

"We now are being asked to make an immediate decision that we're not ready to make," he said. He added that he thought if an immediate vote were taken, that only about five per cent of the residents in his village would support Woods' proposal.

Robert Aicher, president of Schaumburg, voiced approval of some aspects of the proposal.

consolidated homeowner clubs, we want to the county now said, look, baby, we know represent 15,000 people - and we really get action now."

Under close questioning from Edward Kalish, instructor in the history department of Harper Junior College and moderator of the program, Link said, "Our father, who is the county - and you might as well not even bother going to the conference."

But when we formed our Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, a group of

First Arlington Nat'l. Bank Plans Drive-in, Office Bldg.

The First Arlington National Bank has asked village trustees for permission to build a drive-in facility and substitute a multi-story office building at Eastman and Arlington Heights Rd.

Douglas Doble, executive vice president of the bank, said he will try to interest some of the 1,000 of the country's largest industries to rent space in the planned building.

In his petition to the trustees asking permission to first put in the lot a ten-story drive-in building, Doble said he now has six prospective tenants.

"From inquiries we have been able to believe that we would be able to rent additional office space were we to provide it in a high-rise building," he said.

DODDS SAID that it cannot be determined yet how many stories would be constructed, but they might go up to eight. He said, though, that he would insist on securing tenants for a five-story building.

The trailer-bank facility would be used by the bank while tenants for the building are sought, said Doble.

Within two years the bank would be obligated to remove the trailer bank, but it has been three driving-in trailers.

If a required number of corporate tenants for the office building are not secured, Doble said, he would then proceed with the construction of a permanent five-story building for the bank.

Doble said that a bank is needed on the north side of the downtown district area.

The First Arlington National recently demolished a drive-in facility adjacent to the older part of the bank at Campbell and Forest.

ACCORDING TO Doble, the newly-constructed drive-in windows, are attracting 4,000 clients weekly, nine weeks after their opening.

He said that because a new drive-in bank at Eastman and Arlington Heights Rd. would attract 2,000 clients weekly within two years.

Drive-in facilities, according to the vice president, are one solution to the limited parking spaces in the village.

Village trustees are scheduled to consider the bank's proposal during their regular meeting.

Officials of 10 suburban towns gathered in the studios of radio station WNNC-FM last night to participate in a broadcast of a program to merge the 10 municipalities into one suburban city. Mayor Junior College instructor Edward Kalish is currently moderating the discussion. Officials are left in right Mayor Ted Scumacher of Wheeling.

State's Attorney Probing 'Secret Meeting' Charge

The Illinois state's attorney's office will send an observer to Monday's meeting of the Prospect Heights School District 23 board in an effort to learn the board's reasons for its alleged secret meeting.

The announcement came a day after Louis Garrapo of the state's attorney's office said that criminal charges would not be filed against the board for the allegedly illegal meeting due to insufficient evidence, Garrapo told Mr. Joe Ellen Claves, 201 N. Parkway, who signed the complaint against the board last Friday, that the code in the civil action against the board.

Garrapo's reluctance to prosecute caused some reaction among state legislators who had voted the open meeting bill into law as the last session of the legislature.

BOTH REP. Anthony Scarnici (D-Park Forest), the sponsor of the bill, and Rep. David Reager (R-Mount Prospect) expressed dismay at the state's attorney's office not prosecuting the board for holding the meeting without informing the press or the public. Reager and Scarnici agreed, however, that it is not the job of legislators to enforce the law, but only to write and to pass the laws.

Mrs. Claves said the bid board members. A statement from the board is expected at its Monday meeting.

The law that the board was accused of violating requires that all village bodies inform the public of their regular meetings. The law also requires that special meetings must have 24 hours notice. Executive sessions may be held to discuss personnel, land acquisition, youth records, or litigation, but these meetings also must be held at the regular meeting place and the public is to be notified.

Penalties include a fine of $100.

Property Owner Wins Contract To Improve Street in Own Area

The Evergreen Development Co. might have been the first property owner to win a village contract for a special assessment project to improve streets in its own area.

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements approved the contract in a meeting last night.

Evergreen has undertaken the installation of storm and sewer lines and pavement on Evergreen St. from the parking lot of the St. James Catholic Church to Willow.

Development owns nine single-family lots on the east side of the street.

When bids were asked on a special assessment project to improve the street the lowest offer asked for more money than was available.

Evergreen Development volunteered to undertake the project to undertake the improvements at a cost 10 per cent less than the lowest bid, but even that bid was higher than available funds.

Then the company bid again and offered to improve the street at 23 per cent less than the lowest bid. There are seven other owners of lots along Evergreen.

State Awards $3 Million in Road Work

Francis S. Lorenz, Director of the Illinois Division of Highways, last announced that the state has awarded more than $3,000,000 for two area road construction projects. One is the Rock Road Construction Co., Chicago, Inc. contracted to do road work on 1.62 miles of pavement on Rd. 58 between Elmwood Rd. and Northwest Highway for $2,423,898.

Ray Page, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, summed up the afternoon with his comment: "Running for office sometimes gets confusing, but it's not nearly as confusing as participating in a woman's fashion show." Page and several other Republican politicians took part in the "Nominees for Fashion" presented by the Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club yesterday. One charming bachelor at the luncheon was Ray Page. He admitted it was his first fashion show. (The ladies at the table thought he looked too contented to be a bachelor.)

When O'Rourke escorted his model, who had just turned 21, he told the guests that someone had neglected to register her (and in an election year!). All the political guests were interspersed among the 200 women at the festive luncheon to admire the fashions.

Mrs. Edward Killey, combined wit and wisdom in her introductions of the candidates and nominees to the luncheon. She introduced Senator John Graham (R-3), Robert J. O'Rourke, County Superintendent of Schools, and Edward T. Schick, candidate for Cook County Recorder of Deeds. She also introduced Mrs. William Klingaman, Chairman and Mrs. W. Andrew, Mrs. F. Friday, Mrs. O. Brink, Mrs. D. Modie and Mrs. D. Goodman and their hardworking committee members.

Sanitary Diet. Trustee and Mr. Carey, representing Sheriff Wood. The women who worked to produce the event included: Mrs. William Klingaman, Chairman and Mrs. W. Andrew, Mrs. F. Friday, Mrs. O. Brink, Mrs. D. Modie and Mrs. D. Goodman and their hardworking committee members.

'Lollipops and Roses' Luncheon

BY MARILYN HELPERS
Woman's Editor

Two lovely ladies in lace modeled the lengthy runway in the International Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton in a setting of soft pink lights giant lollipops and roses.

Mrs. Paul Knott and her daughter Kimberly represented the Arlington Heights Center at the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago's "Lollipops and Roses" luncheon fashion show Tuesday.

MORE THAN 1,500 women from the Society's almost 50 centers attended the show. Ladies from Arlington Heights who were at the luncheon were Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Mrs. James Mason, Mrs. Karl Matzner, Mrs. J. N. Richards, Mrs. R. A. Burkett, Mrs. Neal Hawkins, Mrs. Richard Ferner, Mrs. Gabor Von Varga and Mrs. Thomas Egan.

Special guests Hugh O'Brien and Celine Holm also took the long walk down the runway accompanied by their nervous nannies to the music of Les Warkels.

This was the first time all the centers had joined together to put on one show—a very successful one. Proceeds from the event will be used for construction of a new Child Development Center that will enable the Society to care for many more children and provide up-to-date facilities for the staff.

Woman's Club to Meet Wednesday

The Arlington Heights Woman's Club will meet Wednesday, March 6, at Recreation Park Field House. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. and the business meeting will be called to order by Mrs. Stephen Juron, president, at 1:15 p.m.

Luncheon chairman is Mrs. Thomas Johnson and hostesses for March are Mrs. Charles Studman and Mrs. Fred Jaeger.

Ray Page, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, told the Republicans gathered for the luncheon at the Holiday Inn in Mount Prospect yesterday, "now that the Democrats have finished their three ring circus, we can get down to the serious business of winning."

"We'll let the Republicans decide in June who their candidates will be. This can be a Republican year, if you make it so we can't just ride in on the tide," he said.

Page added: "Sometimes it gets pretty crowded in my office when everyone comes to Springfield on business; they all should have offices of their own."

Coffeehouse Planned

BY LINDA GAMMILL
A new coffee house is in the works for Arlington Heights. Teen-agers and they are the ones who are going to have to make it a success.

Employees of the Arlington Heights Park Dist. are donating their time to give the youth a place to discuss problems, present views, and just be themselves.

A meeting will be held Monday, March 4, at 7 p.m. in the Recreation Park fieldhouse, 500 E. Miner, to determine how much interest local young people have in a project such as this. All area youth are welcome to attend.

IT IS PLANNED that the high school age students will run the coffee house with almost a free hand. Adults will supervise the coffee house, but the youth will decide what type of place it will be.

They will decorate the coffee house according to their own tastes, raise money and govern themselves as much as possible.

Successful coffee houses for teenagers now are in operation in Oak Park and Evanston and these have been studied by Arlington Heights Park Dist. personnel.

"IT WILL SUCCEED only if the students want it to succeed," said Jim Swart, a spokesman of the Park Dist. and a 21-year-old journalism student at Harper College. Swart is in charge of getting the project off the ground.

Swart said he wants to get a nucleus of 50 to 60 men who would be willing to work in committees to get things started.

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

"I don't know what would you want to say about the alleged violation of the secret meeting law and the Illinois state's attorney's refusal to bring any charges to court?"

"Well, how is it that the Prospect Heights Board of Education can violate the law and get away with it?"

"I know it was alleged that a secret meeting took place, and I understood the board was supposed to have admitted it. But I bet by now they are sorry they posted it and that one won't have any more secret meetings."

"Yes, but why doesn't the state's attorney do anything about a violation of the law such as this case?"

"Well, one clue came from Attorney General William G. Clark, who said the state's attorney office may be hesitant to become embroiled in the school district's affairs since there is an election slated in April."

"What was an election got to do with it?"

"Who knows? Maybe they're too busy planning campaigns to worry about other matters. Or maybe it's just one of a trend lately whereby laws are passed and promptly ignored."

"Maybe it's because, as one state legislator explained, that any representative can sponsor a bill and have it passed into law and look good to the voters back home. But there is no requirement that funds be voted for an enforcement of the law."

"What do they do in a case like that?"

"Cases are probably more likely to be handled that way through the state statutes we would find that many are breaking the law every day but the state just doesn't have the personnel to track it down and make a big deal out of it."

"Then too, some of the laws in this country to what has been common practice in many areas of the state. And if the violation falls under the jurisdiction of the law, they may ignore it rather than make an arrest."

"What laws are being ignored by the police?"

"Well, they've been mentioned here before. There's the new state law that makes it illegal to push one vehicle with another one on any public highway in the state."

But I bet a politician would feel silly arresting some poor guy for trying to get a friend's car started."

"And, of course, no arrests have been made yet for anyone going past a steady amber light at an intersection. NRP one seems to know just what a steady amber light is."

"But we're patiently waiting for summer to arrive. Last year we learned that the state didn't have the manpower to beat the scales in all the summer roadside truck and trailer weigh stations in the area. One scale was discovered, in regular use, hadn't been tested since 1942."

"Do you think they'll try they don't want to get involved in testing scales during an election year?"

"That's quite possible."

Some Special Tax Situations

BY JAMES L. SHODDES
(Last of a Series)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are special features of the federal income tax laws which may concern the average taxpayer, but are of great interest to those who are not so fortunate.

Divorced or separated persons, for example, should know about a law which requires that, if they have new laws or decrees, which may mean the 500-gram exemption for a dependent child. The rules are complicated and anyone affected by the law should consult the nearest IRS office or a competent tax attorney.

Another special rule provides a tax break for a woman who is single, married, widowed, divorced or separated, and who is dependent on the care of a child or dependent child. Under certain circumstances, she may deduct up to $500 a year for expenses incurred in her ing someone to care for the child or dependent while she is at work. (The deduction goes up to $1,000 if the child or dependent is over 17 and no one to be cared for.)

A man may also claim a credit if he is widowed, divorced or legally separated from his wife, if she is incapacitated or institutionalized, and if he is affected should check with IRS or his adviser.

THERE ALSO are special provisions affecting persons 65 or over. They may be eligible for a "retirement income credit," which is often better than a deduction, since it is applied not to a taxable income but to the amount of taxes owed.

The rules are spelled out quite clearly in the instructions and also on the new table (Part V) of Schedule B of the tax form. Anyone who finds them hard to follow should consult the IRS or a competent tax adviser. The saving is well worth the effort.

A self-employed business man may be entitled to a tax credit if he invested money during the year in certain types of bonds (such as those issued by local governments or state bonds) which will be used for his business for at least 10 years.

The credit can amount to 10 per cent of the amount of the investment. For details, ask the nearest IRS office to send you their booklet number 5050.

IF YOU LIVE abroad in a foreign country or U.S. territory during the past year, and paid income taxes there, you may be able to claim a tax credit for them. Details are available in tables 5517, which any IRS office will be glad to mail to you.

If you use gasoline for purposes other than fueling a car or other motor vehicle (for example, in a boat, tractor, airplane, or power equipment), you can claim a credit of 2 cents per gallon for all gasoline used for such purposes.

For Form 4138, which you must complete to claim this credit, and also this one.

Finally, and this is one that affects nearly everyone who is or may be a taxpayer, is the "charitable contribution deduction" to which you're entitled. It's a credit for the amount of your contributions to certain types of expenditures which may properly be claimed as a miscellaneous deduction.

"The way I see it—if Lindsay can run New York, he can easily run the country!"

The OLD Parental Worry

Worry loves company just as much as worry does, even if that company is 10 years old. Thus a fragment of ancient history reported by the National Geographic Society has been used to modern parents as if it happened yesterday.

"I did not go anywhere," the teen-age son he caught trying to sneak home late at night.

"Come now, a man's don't stand in the public square, or wander about the boulevard. Go to school. Night and day you waste in pleasure."

This scene took place in Sumner about 2000 B.C. Because the Sumnerians, who lived in Mesopotamia, invented writing and in the process created the first imperishable clay tablets, archeologists have been able to bring their civilization to vivid life.

Undoubtedly human nature was much the same long before the Sumnerians, but for want of written records we can only imagine. Some far-flung father admonishing his wayward son in this wise, perhaps:

"Where have you been, telling about in caves painting pictures on the walls again? Be useful. Learn to make arrowheads and go hunting! How do you ever expect mankind to amount to anything?"

'Let's Look At The Facts'

Editor: It is interesting that those who opposed the last referendum concerning annexation of the Arlington Heights Park District have suddenly developed "regret."

Individuals who admit opposing previous referendum took the Ridge Park Community association of "negative."

I let look at the facts. The association has been represented as two meetings concerning the pool. At the meeting of the board of the Ridge Park, the president advised that the board of the Ridge Park might involve the problems of the proposed pool at Ridge Park.

At the negative? We asked the Ridge Park Community association to preserve the residential character of the neighborhood. By a unanimous vote of the Martin J. Kelly case, commission members are on our case.

Together with the village board, and possibly 50,000 residents of the Ridge Park, we are now opposing night at Arlington Heights. We have asked that those residents most affected by the proposed pool at Arlington Heights be given a voice in the matter. This is "regretful."

We want to hear from a constructive contribution by help elect him. James L. Grady

Your Horoscope

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar. 21) - Don't be put off by a slow morning. This is a Saturday that gathers momentum as it approaches its own end.

ARIES (Mar. 22 - Apr. 20) - Prospects for fun and profit are good. The wine Aries will take advantage of an opportunity to become involved in something new.

Taurus (Apr. 21 - May 21) - Don't forget a well-earned success by a last-minute display of faulty judgment. A keeper intruder could spoil all.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) - Don't be discouraged by the opposition that meets your plans this morning. Family and friends need time to rally around.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) - The extravagant Cancer will have cause to rue the day sooner or later, but especially careful handling other people's money.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) - Stick to one place and to activities that keep you in one place. This is not the day for seeking pleasure for afield.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) - Gains may not be apparent - but they will be forthcoming in the long run - for the Virgo who keeps to the budget.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) - The Libra who hurries through the preliminaries will have cause to regret it when the finals arrive. Prepare thoroughly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 23) - Stick close to usual routine and you will be able to avoid mistakes made when you don't know the ropes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 23) - A good day for cementing a friendship with your future. Cancer worries go down the drain if you work right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) - A Saturday for employing moderation in all things. Take your time when it comes to making important decisions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) - Business matters can wait. This is a Saturday to spend with friends and family in the pursuit of mutual goals.
